Lack of Power May Not Rule Out Hunter for Atomic Site

Planes Smash SAM Site; Cong Force Shattered

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. planes blasted another missile site in North Viet Nam today, the seventh raid on the Soviet-built air defense system in four days. But the series of attacks, which destroyed two sites and damaged five others, took a toll of five U.S. planes and two helicopters, with six American airmen listed as missing in enemy territory.

Count 110 Bodies

On the ground in the South, troops of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Division blasted a well-fortified jungle position north of Saigon, U.S. officials said they counted 110 enemy bodies and were still counting. The Viet Cong force is believed to have abandoned the position.

The latest attack on a missile site was 60 miles east of Hanoi, and the pilots reported four missiles and four launchers at the site were heavily damaged.

Since July, U.S. planes have destroyed five missile installations and damaged eight others, military officials reported. The Communists bagged their greatest number of U.S. aircraft of the weekend during U.S. attacks on missile sites near Thanh Hoa. There, a missile downed one U.S. air force F105 jet Friday, while conventional groundfire blasted down two propeller-driven A1 Skyraiders and two rescue helicopters Saturday.

One Navy jet was knocked down in an attack on a missile site 35 miles east of Hanoi Saturday and another was lost Sunday.

day 30 miles south of Hanoi during another attack on a missile site. Rescue helicopters picked up five of the 11 airmen whose craft went down in Red territory.

In the South, paratroopers of the 173rd Airborne met what was described as a main force of Viet Cong dressed in gray fatigues-like uniforms never seen before in South Viet Nam. The (Continued on Page 14, Col. 5)

Reds Display Missiles At Anniversary Rites; Ease Attacks on U.S.

By FRED COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians displayed three new missiles Sunday plus an older one which they said can orbit the earth with a nuclear warhead.

The Soviet missiles were shown during the mammoth military parade marking the 48th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Attacks on the United States were relatively mild.

Orbital Rocket Is First

The orbital rocket, shown first last May Day, was given the place of honor in the parade of 250 pieces of military hardware. Behind it, came a mobile missile which the Russians described as invulnerable. The Russians say it is a new intercontinental ballistic missile. Western experts estimated its range at 1,500 to 5,000 miles. The term "invulnerable" was taken to mean it could be moved on the ground to avoid attack.

It appeared to be a revised version of the Iron Maiden first shown last May. It was about 60 feet long, 20 feet longer than the Iron Maiden, five feet in diameter and solid fueled.

The other new missiles were described as intermediate-range ballistic missiles with a range of between 300 and 1,500 miles.

A fourth new weapon, tank-like in appearance and mobile, contained four anti-aircraft guns of about 50 caliber.

An announcement said the orbital missile could put a nuclear warhead into orbit and it then could be fired from the ground.

Longest Ever Shown

The missile, at 115 feet, was the longest nuclear missile ever displayed here. It is three-stage and liquid-fueled, similar to the rockets which launch Soviet space ships.

A United Nations agreement, signed by both the Soviet Union and the United States, prohibits the orbiting of a nuclear weapon.

The United States has tested missiles to destroy attacking missiles in space but has not claimed to be able to launch nuclear attacks from space.

Since both the Soviet Union and the United States can orbit and return manned spacecraft, it is assumed they can do the same thing with a nuclear warhead, sources said. But U. S. experts consider intercontinental and intermediate-range ballistic missiles produce the same effect at less cost and with greater accuracy than an orbiting missile.

Defense Minister Rodio Malinovsky, the only speaker at the parade, again charged the United States with imperialistic interference in the affairs of other countries and with barbaric raids on Viet Nam. His remarks were milder than in May when he said the United States was threatening a wider war.

200 Attend Granit Dinner Saturday Honoring Eaton

Testimonial dinners honoring Herman J. Eaton, CLU, for his quarter of a century of dedicated service not only to the Jewish life of Kingston but the entire community as well, heard him described as a "special specie of a man."

This description was given Saturday night by Attorney Aaron E. Klein, who was the keynote speaker for the dinner held at the Granit Hotel in Accord.

Upwards of 200 persons attended the event at which Eaton and his wife, Ida, were honored. Actually, the dinner was billed as a recognition of Eaton's 25 years of service to the Jewish community but speakers were quick to stress the guest of honor's outstanding work spreads across the entire community as well.

Former Judge Klein labeled Eaton as the "best single fund raiser the Kingston community has ever known" as attested by his successes with the Ulster County Heart Fund drive and the Kingston Community Chest.

Aldermen Will Meet Tonight

Canvass of the Nov. 2 Election results in the city will take place at a meeting of the Common Council at 7:30 tonight in City Hall.

The Council normally meets on the first Tuesday of the month. However, last Tuesday was Election Day, and the City Charter requires that a canvass of the city election returns be made the first Monday immediately following the election, which is today.

Meanwhile, local laws expected to be presented at tonight's Council meeting include proposals to make the mayor a member and president of the Board of Fire Commissioners and the Water Board. The proposals were among recommendations of retiring Republicans.

Mayor John J. Schwenk, Mayor Schwenk presently serves as member and president of the Police Board and the Board of Public Works. Another item of proposed legislation calls for a method to expedite procedures at Kingston City Laboratory.

Other deaths, by community, included: Cato — David A. Peck, 2.

$102,000 Bid for Hospital

Jewish Group Eyes Ellenville Facility

By CHARLES M. MCCARTHY
Freeman Staff Writer

What looms as a unique facility to serve the Jewish community in southern Ulster County was revealed today with announcement of a lone bid by the Congregation Ezrath Israel at Ellenville for the Veterans Memorial Hospital in that community.

The congregation submitted a lone bid of $102,000, accompanied by a five per cent deposit of $5,100 for purchase of the Veterans Memorial Hospital, which is being replaced by the new $1.7 Ellenville Community Hospital.

The bids — which were advertised not to be less than $75,000 in total — were opened by the Ellenville Hospital Board of Directors.

Benjamin Lonsstein, Board president, told The Freeman that Congregation Ezrath Israel was the lone bidder, and the bid would be discussed at the regular meeting of the Hospital Board, Thursday.

Julius Slutsky, president of the congregation, also told The Freeman that current plans call for establishment of a "complex community building" to house the congregation's religious, social and athletic centers, with gymnasium and education facilities as well. He said that the nonsectarian Joseph Slutsky Center opposite the Veterans Memorial building would continue to operate, but the new facility would provide services to the congregation that are unique in the area.

Slutsky said that the congregation currently serves about 350 families in the Ellenville area.

The new hospital, which is located outside the village off Route 209, has recently become a source of controversy over its proposed name: Ellenville Community.

Every Family Warned, Roadblocks Set Up

BY WALTER S. CLARK JR.
(Freeman Staff Writer)

An attempted extortion of $25,000 ransom through the threats of kidnapping the wife and children of a Kingston banker was under investigation by State Police early this afternoon as roadblocks were set up throughout the area for a white jeep.

The money was recovered, state police said, after it was reportedly tossed from a car to a vehicle believed to have been occupied by the would-be extortionists in the vicinity of Sawkill Road, according to Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of the Kingston state police station.

Lieut. A. H. Van Blaricum of Ferndale was in charge of the search and investigation here. Troopers were called in from all area substations to assist.

The would-be victim of the attempted extortion was Ronald H. Every, manager of the Albany Avenue branch of the State of New York National Bank, troopers said.

At about 11 a. m. today, Kingston State Police were notified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that Every had notified FBI agents that he received a telephone call moments before, reporting he had received a telephone threat demanding $25,000 ransom or his wife and children would be kidnapped and harmed.

Immediately, troopers were sent to Every's home in West Hurley, and others were dispatched to Sawkill Road where the money was dropped supposedly by Every and later recovered by troopers.

Sergeant Rhodes said early investigation disclosed that the unidentified man, who called Every said that his wife and children

Proposal Requires More Study

Installation Cost Of Transmission Lines Is Factor

The lack of normal transmission facilities or the cost of power in the Hunter area of Greene County should not rule out Hunter as a possible site for a $348-million federal atom-smasher announced in a proposal last week.

The Freeman learned today that the project of providing adequate transmission facilities to the site, if approved, is still under study by the utilities involved. The Empire State Atomic Development Associates, a group of New York State electric power companies would decide if the cost of power for the Hunter site could be kept within the limit prescribed by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Involves Cost of Lines

It has not been determined how the cost of construction of adequate transmission lines could be absorbed, or whether it would be necessary to add the cost to the rate.

A favorable decision that would not affect the rate could change the position of Hunter as stated by Governor Rockefeller.

An Associated Press report from Albany today said the price of electric power poses no barrier to possible construction of the atom-smasher in New York State, according to Governor Rockefeller.

A special team of Atomic Energy Commission scientists will inspect a Hunter Mountain tract Friday. The Greene County site is one of 85 under consideration for the new plant.

Hunter Mountain Development Corp., directed by Isidore and Orville Slutsky made the application.

Cites Low Rates

The governor said over the weekend that low prices for electric power would be available at all but one of the six sites proposed in New York for the plant.

He suggested that the committee assigned to select one of the 85 sites under consideration in the United States should focus on factors other than electricity costs in New York.

Rockefeller said in a letter to Dr. E. R. Pione of the National Academy of Sciences that electricity utilities in the state had agreed to keep a ceiling of five (Continued on Page 14, Col. 6)

Resnick to Visit Viet GIs During Christmas Period

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick on Sunday revealed plans to visit Viet Nam during Christmas-Chanukah week to bring gifts and greetings from the people of the 28th District.

"No matter how we feel about the war in Viet Nam, our boys are there," Resnick said in making the announcement. "This time of the year, the least I can do is go over and extend greetings from the folks back home on behalf of the people of the 28th District. I hope while there to attend Chanukah after they with the soldiers of the Jewish faith."

The Jewish festival, Chanukah, coincides this year with Christmas week, Dec. 19-26. Resnick said that he has discussed his plans with the Defense and State Departments and received the necessary clearances. He will make the trip at his own expense.

A number of organizations and individuals in the district have contacted the congressman requesting his assistance in sending gifts to servicemen. Rep. Resnick has arranged for an Air Force plane to air lift the gifts from California to Viet Nam. The gifts will be trucked to California after they are collected in the district. Complete details are being worked out in Washington and will be announced.

12 Meet Death on Highways

17 Persons Perish In State Mishaps

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A young man's futile and fatal attempt to save a friend from drowning, although he could not swim, emerged today as one of the dramatic chapters of a weekend in which 17 persons died in accidents in New York State.

The toll included 12 traffic deaths in the period from 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday midnight. One person perished in a fire and four others lost their lives in other kinds of accidents, including the crash of a jet plane.

The drowning victims Saturday in Buffalo were Carl L. Beaver and Ronald McCann, both 20.

Police said two girls, who were with the Buffalo youths, told them that Beaver left a parked automobile, climbed a fence and fell into the Niagara River at the foot of a street on the city's west side.

When Beaver disappeared, McCann plunged into the fast-moving current. When the girls returned from seeking aid, both youths had vanished, they told police.

Mrs. Cecilia J. McCann, mother of Ronald said her son could not swim and was afraid of entering the water.

The jet plane crash occurred Saturday at Camp Drum near Watertown. The plane, an F100-C fighter, was flown by Capt. J. Robert McChesney, 30, of Erie, Pa., a New York State Air National Guard pilot.

Another pilot, said the two were preparing to take gunnery practice on a rocket range when McChesney's plane suddenly nosed over and crashed. The cause is being sought by a team of Air Force investigators.

Other deaths, by community, included:

MVB Mails Out First Of 6 Million Cards

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Motor Vehicles Department today mailed the first of about six million punch card forms to motorists as the initial step in a new permanent-plate and staggered-registration system.

Vehicle-owners also will find a 50 per cent increase in the registration fees, a measure approved by the 1965 session of the Legislature.

A department spokesman said the new program "will eventually end license-plate headaches that have annoyed a whole generation of 'car owners' who have faced long lines at registration offices each January."

He said the mailing will continue for nearly three weeks, until all vehicle-owners have received a semi-completed punch card.

Commissioner William S.

Hults said most of the required data will be entered on the form by his department. "All that motorists will have to do is answer a few simple questions and sign their names," he said.

The duration of 1966 passenger-car registrations will vary from 10 to 15 months, or from October, 1966 to March, 1967. Thereafter, Hults said, the registration period will be 12 months.

The expiration dates will be based on the last number or letter of the motorist's current license plates, using this formula:

Ten months—4, 9, D, M, S, U, or Z; 11 months—2, 7, B, G, D, P or S; 13 months—5, 0, E, N or V; 14 months—1, 6, A, F, J, O, or W; 15 months—3, 8, C, H, L, Q or Y.

The fees will be pro-rated to reflect the length of the registration period and will be 50 per (Continued on Page 14, Col. 6)

Failure to Vote

Editor, The Freeman
I asked quite a few people before election day if they were going to vote, and some said no, they hadn't registered. After the election I asked more if they had voted, and the answer was quite surprisingly "no" I didn't get out or wasn't able to, though these same people were able to go to work, and with a few exceptions most of them have cars.

The League of Women Voters deserve a vote of thanks for the wonderful job they did in circulating pamphlets making information available regarding the amendments plus particulars regarding who may vote, etc. I picked up some at the bank and passed a few around.

Another astounding bit of information came to my ears the day after election. A man who lives in this area and is probably in his late sixties reported that he had never voted and neither had his father. The thought went through my mind that if the privilege to vote were taken away from some of these people, who would shout the loudest?

State Is Winner

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts reaped close to $500,000 during the last fiscal year from unclaimed racing winnings, unclaimed insurance policies, unclaimed bank books and other forms of unclaimed property.

State fiscal agencies reported also that almost $5 million has reverted to the state in the last 10 years because people have abandoned their property or have died without heirs.

Oddities Mark Canadian Vote

TORONTO (AP) — By U.S. standards, the election Canada holding today is an odd one.

Everyone knows that the purpose is to decide whether Lester B. Pearson will continue as prime minister or surrender the job to John G. Diefenbaker.

But neither's name appears on the ballot in 263 of the 265 voting districts. Pearson is running personally only in the Algoma East District of Ontario. Diefenbaker's name is on the ballot only in the Prince Albert District of Saskatchewan.

The way Canadian elections work, the party that wins most of the 265 seats in the House of Commons establishes the government and gets to see its leader become prime minister. Pearson leads the Liberal party, Diefenbaker the Conservatives. The national election is not held at four-year intervals like the U.S. presidential vote. Here the winning party has a five-year mandate, but under normal circumstances does call an election after four years. It can call one earlier if it wants, and must call one if it is defeated in Parliament on a vote of confidence.

Pearson's Liberals called today's election because, although they are the leading party in Parliament, they lack a majority. They hope to improve their standing.

The election ballot is simple, containing only the names of two to six candidates running from an election district. The ballot doesn't list party affiliations — only candidates' names, addresses and occupations.

The reasoning behind this is that designation of a party could detract from a candidates' independence as an MP — Member of Parliament — and there might be difficulties if more than one candidate claims to represent a party.

The voter places an X beside the name of the candidate he prefers. There are no voting machines.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 8, 1965

AMERICAN EDUCATION

What is happening in our colleges today resembles Times Square on New Year's Eve—lots of noise, an air of festiveness and expectation, a sense of elation over being in such large company, and a general unwillingness to question the purpose of it all.

The description is offered in the latest annual report of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, an organization which seeks to recruit young people for the teaching profession and to dramatize the need for competent, well-trained college teachers.

Looking about the American educational scene, the foundation finds much which appears to be cause for celebration.

In 1964-65, money spent for education rose to an estimated $39 billion. Of this, the federal government contributed $3.8 billion, an increase of 60 per cent over the previous year.

Nearly 28 per cent of the nation's population—almost 54.2 million—are attending schools; five million of them are in colleges, with 415,000 college teachers ministering to them.

"The American dream of equal educational opportunity for everybody is nearer its fulfillment than ever before," notes the report. It adds, however, "that posterity will judge teachers not by the numbers of people they trained to perform tasks, but by the quality of spirit they generated in their students."

In this light, the foundation discerns a number of flaws in an otherwise glowing picture:

Today's high school student often has been under pressure to perform, not from love of learning but simply to get himself into college, which the public now accepts as an absolute good.

High selectivity has often led to over-emphasis on impersonal factors, such as scores and grades.

Because so much administrative energy in colleges is absorbed in physical expansion, there is too little concern in high places over bad teaching.

Graduate education in some instances continues to be pedantic, overspecialized and impersonal and thus may produce pedantic, overspecialized and impersonal young teachers.

Counterbalancing this are hopeful signs, such as colleges' growing awareness of the importance of teachers, a massive swing in popular interest toward the arts, expansion of scholarships and fellowships, the increasing interest of professors in the causes that move their students.

In a time preoccupied with quantity, the foundation reminds that "true teaching occurs when one person's mind is stimulated by another person's mind and when a human heart is touched by another heart."

It is confident that enough committed teachers will be found in the years ahead that this ideal will not become a drop-out from the American scheme of education.

Educational television is a fine thing — but it's not looking as educational as ordinary TV if you're hankering for knowledge about what's wrong with our society.

PARTY OF THE RICH?

An American tradition makes the Republicans the party of the wealthy, while their Democratic rivals, chief following is among the workers. This tradition was seriously damaged in 1964.

According to Fortune magazine, President Johnson received more money from the wealthy than Barry Goldwater. In many cases his supporters were Republicans who in 1960 had given money to the Nixon campaign, and now backed Johnson even more heavily. Of the individual contributors to the Democratic campaign fund, 60 per cent were of $500 and more. The Republicans, on the other hand, got only 28 per cent of their gifts in sums of $500 and more.

It was not a desirable tradition to have the parties divide on class lines. Both rich and poor should be represented in both parties. And lest anyone bewail the fate of the GOP, deserted by its rich friends, let it be noted that both parties in 1964 received and spent more money than ever before.

Etruscans may have found America 2,000 years before Leif Ericson. It's going to take some adjustment to think of him and Columbus as Johnny-come-latelys.

REPUBLICAN DIVISIVENESS PERSISTS

There's been a 13-0 in the state of Connecticut that makes one despair of Republicans ever getting together. The affair, which has embarrassed no less a person than the Republican Minority Leader of the U.S. Senate, Everett Dirksen, is worth looking at because it is symptomatic of Republican sickness all over the country.

First, let us paint a bit of the Connecticut background. Last winter the local Republican State Central Committee chose to outlaw a mildly conservative organization called the Citizens Committee for the Republican Party. I call this Committee mildly conservative because its guiding spirits were prepared to support William Scranton or Nelson Rockefeller for the Presidency if he had happened to get the 1964 nomination. When the plum went to Goldwater, however, John Lupton, the executive director of the committee, went all out for victory in his job as campaign director for all the Republicans. This annoyed many of the "regular" Republicans, who proved to be sour-grapes party members. When Goldwater lost, the sour-grapes element leaped for Lupton's throat, even though today Lupton stands ready to support any and all Republicans who are nominated for important office.

Far from being the kiss of death, repudiation has not visibly affected the Citizens Committee. It has held two highly successful off-year rallies, with Senator George Murphy and Ronald Reagan, both of California, coming to Connecticut to pack them in. Recently the Citizens Committee invited Senator Dirksen to come into the state to speak for the Dirksen Amendment designed to guarantee geographical unit representation in one house of the local legislature to any state that wishes it. Connecticut is about to vote on a new Constitution, which will include "one man, one vote" reapportionment for both its legislative houses. Conceivably, a speech by Dirksen would affect the vote on the Constitution. The regular Republicans are mostly supporting reapportionment despite the state tradition of unit representation for one legislative chamber. But, regardless of their wishes in the Constitutional battle, the regular Republicans had no decent business in trying to prevent Dirksen from coming to the state to exercise his right of free speech on a subject close to his heart.

The regulars pulled "protocol" on Dirksen. Working through Ray Bliss, head of the Republican National Committee, and bringing up such local big guns as former Senator Prescott Bush and former Representative Horace Seelye-Brown, to pressure Dirksen out of his original acceptance of the invitation, they got the Republican Minority Leader to back off. "The flak was just too great," so Dirksen told Mr. Lupton in saying he couldn't make it.

The real irony of the situation, so far as Dirksen is concerned, is that he was persuaded to give up his scheduled speech by a local Republican organization which includes highly placed individuals who have scoffed at the Dirksen Amendment as being a "farce." Some of the "regulars" in Connecticut even went so far as to impugn Dirksen's probity by saying that Gordon Reed, a member of the Republican Citizens Committee who used to be the regular Republicans' finance chairman, went down to Washington to "buy" Dirksen's original acceptance of the invitation to speak.

Because of the rift between the regulars and the Citizens Committee in Connecticut the backbiting and caterwauling grow apace. The regular Republicans can't raise money, for the older angels of the party, most of whom live in the rich end of the state around Greenwich, support the Citizens. The result is paralysis — and a prospective free run to victory for Democrats in 1966.

The idiotic thing about it is that it's all so needless. The Lupton group has even offered to bow out and let the regular Republicans reaffirm the invitation to Dirksen, with the privilege of keeping all the money gained from selling tickets for regular Republican coffers. Instead of helping to exacerbate divisiveness in Connecticut, National Chairman Ray Bliss should be playing a peacemaker role, with all working organizations permitted to strive for Republican victories in the ways that are congenial to them. This is what the Democratic Party does — and the Democrats keep on winning.

THE WELL CHILD

Don't Worry If Children Sleep With Eyes Half Open

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A mother writes that her 9-year-old daughter has for several years slept with her eyes half open. This is not an uncommon observation. If the child can close her eyes without difficulty when she is awake there is nothing to worry about. The growth of her eyelids has not yet caught up with that of her eyeballs and she will outgrow it.

If a toxic goiter is present the eyes will protrude day and night and, if this is the case, the child will need medical attention. In most children who sleep with their eyes partially open the eyeballs roll upward so that only the whites are visible, but if any of the iris is exposed an ointment or eye drops should be prescribed for use at bedtime.

Q—In your column about agammaglobulinemia you stated that it may be transmitted by the mother but is seen only in boys. My little girl had this condition and took shots of gamma globulin for a year. How do you explain this?

A—In agammaglobulinemia, which occurs only in boys, there is a complete absence of gamma globulin in the blood. Occasionally girls of preschool age have a gamma globulin deficiency — not a complete absence. If they get frequent infections, injections of gamma globulin are given for a short time. By the time these girls are ready for school their gamma globulin production is usually normal.

Q—Our 3-year-old son can lift neither his head nor his limbs. His speech and intelligence are normal for his age. Our doctor says he has amyotonia congenita. What causes it and what is the treatment?

A—Since your son's disease is inherited as a recessive (as opposed to dominant) characteristic, the determinant genes must have been present in both you and your husband. Unfortunately, there is no treatment for this disease and far too many frantic parents spend their life savings dashing from clinic to clinic in search of a cure. This leads to disappointment and bankruptcy.

Most children who have this disease die in their first year. Those who survive beyond one year usually show some improvement but never achieve much muscular strength.

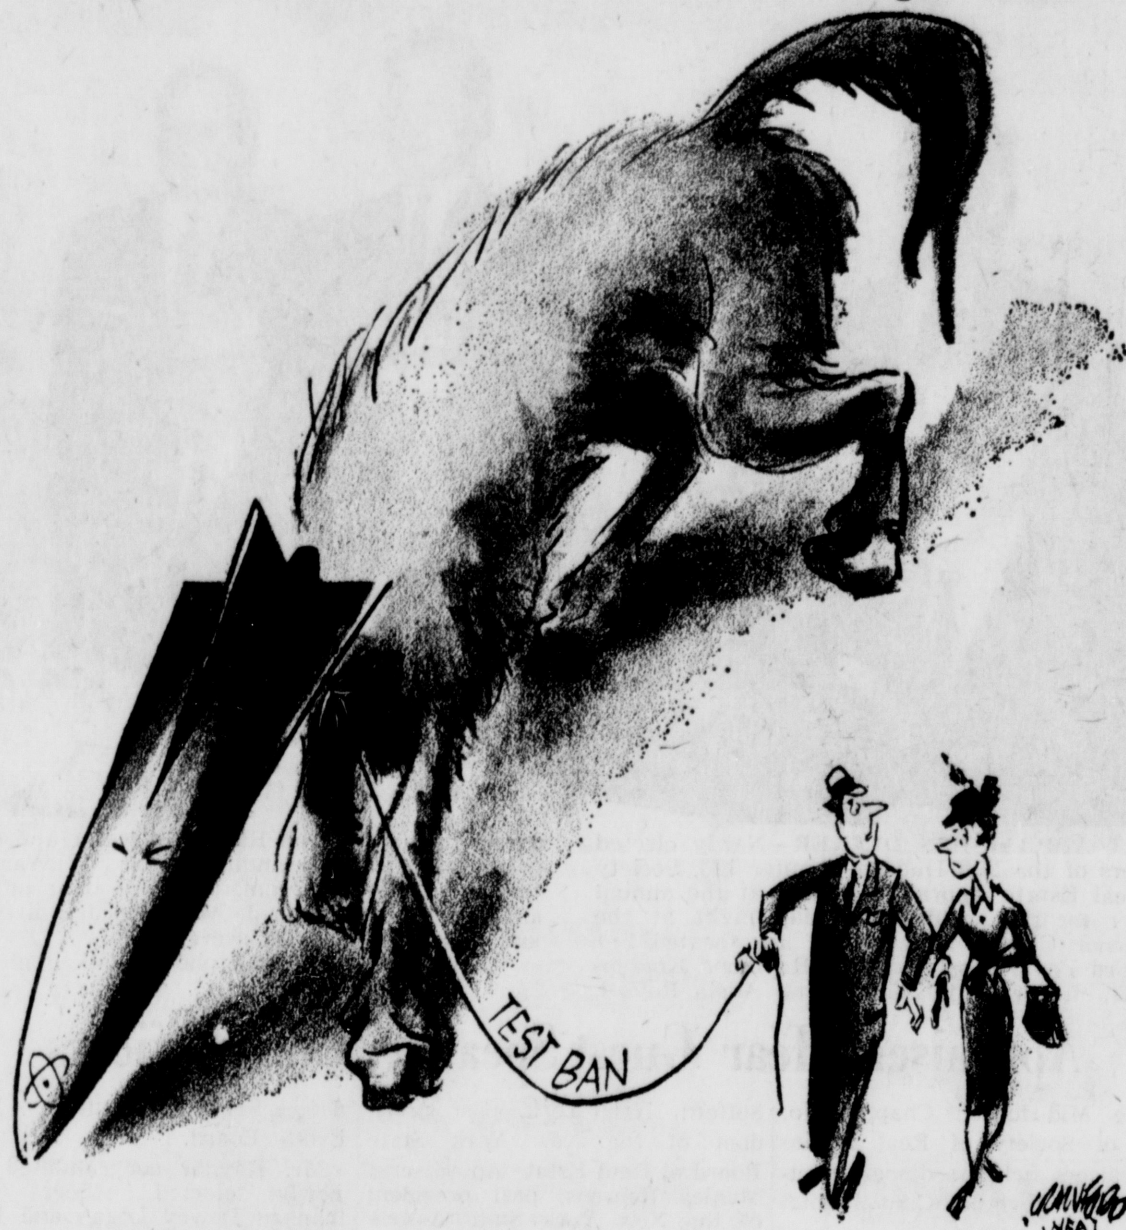

Q—My 8-year-old daughter has a double-jointed knee and falls a lot. What can be done for her?

A—She should wear a brace. If for any reason this is not feasible she will have to have an operation to fuse her knee joint so that it will not bend at all.

"Maybe We Should Look Into a Stronger Leash!"

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If way-out groups should succeed in getting large numbers of young men to falsely pose as conscientious objectors, they're going to be in for a surprise.

The local draft boards require a battery of evidence.

The burden of proof is on the conscientious objector, not the government. As Selective Service men say, a man can't just sit back and avoid service by simply saying he is a conscientious objector and "daring the government to prove . . . (he does not have such a belief."

TO START WITH, there's a standard questionnaire for conscientious objectors. Some of its questions:

"Do you believe in a Supreme Being?"

"Describe the nature of your belief which is the basis of your claim made . . . above, and state whether or not your belief in a Supreme Being involves duties which to you are superior to those arising from any human relation."

"Explain how, when and from whom or from what source you received the training and acquired the belief which is the basis of your claim."

"Give the name and present address of the individual upon whom you rely most for religious guidance."

"Under what circumstances, if any, do you believe in the use of force?"

"Describe the actions and behavior in your life which in your opinion most conspicuously demonstrate the consistency and depth of your religious convictions."

"Have you ever given public expression, written or oral, to the views herein expressed as the basis for your claim made . . . above? If so, specify when and where."

"Give the names and other information indicated concerning persons who could supply information as to the sincerity of your professed convictions against participation in war."

The draft board also wants to know where the "objector" attends church or other religious meetings, who the pastor is — and when (or whether) he became a church member.

IF THE LOCAL DRAFT BOARD is convinced the young man is a genuine conscientious objector, he is so classified. If they have doubts, they may call him in for an interview (or he may request one.)

If he is dissatisfied with their verdict, he may appeal to his state appeal board, which then reviews his case.

If the state board is uncertain, it sends the material to the Justice Department, which usually asks the Federal Bureau of Investigation to gather evidence. (If met with a flood of objector applications from one or more areas, the FBI could call in agents from other parts of the country.)

At this point, the "CO" applicant may request a hearing before a Justice Department representative.

A Justice Department report goes to the state appeal board — which then makes a decision.

Unless the state board decision is unanimous, the conscientious objector can take an appeal to the President. In practice, this means to the National Selective Service Appeal Board.

If that decision, too, goes against him, the CO may then wait, report to the local processing center for physical and mental tests and refuse to be inducted when and if called.

Then his case goes before the courts.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Can animals reason? The question has been in dispute a long time. Families with pets attribute human qualities to dogs, cats and canaries. Some look upon the animal as a member of the family. I knew a lady painter who ate dinner in candlelight, served by servants. Opposite her was her cat in a high chair. She carried on a one-way conversation with the animal throughout the meal.

This is not reason, on either side. The word reason itself is nebulous. The noun reason means the purpose or motive for an act. The verb, to which I have particular reference, means to analyze, to deduce, to reach a decision.

To reason properly an animal must first become aware of a problem. Secondly, it must devise one or more solutions. Third, it must test each one and recognize the correct one. Most scientists feel that only man can reason properly because he can pass knowledge on to others by speech and through the printed word.

Each animal must learn for himself, by experience, what his ancestors knew unless the matter involves instinct, which is built into the brain through repetitive experience over thousands of generations. A cat who has never seen a dog is afraid of the first one who comes near. A puppy will love the odor of meat long before the first taste.

My German shepherd is 8 years old. He is black and big and fretful and kind. The dog next door is a 6-month-old shepherd named King Pat. He breaks the leash in his garage and leaps to play with Rocky on the lawn. My dog pushes the young one back towards the garage until he gets him inside. Then he growls at the youth to scare him into remaining where he is.

Is this reason? It could be instinct. On the west side of Manhattan a group of terriers had fun with a rat. They circled him. He squeaked. Then he saw a truck. He ran between dual tires. The dogs could not dislodge him. When the truck started off, the rat crouched and ran between the tires.

Aristotle, the great Greek, observed animals closely. He wrote, over 2,000 years ago, that animals can learn and remember but cannot reason. He was a wise man, and yet I doubt his wisdom in this case. I feel that animals can reason, but only in desperation; only when their lives are at stake. It is as though the power to rationalize is present in such a small degree that it can be called up for use as a last-ditch device.

Frank Beach, writing in The New Treasury of Science, cites the case of a hungry octopus who, in an aquarium, was separated from his prey by a short sheet of glass. The octopus slammed his tentacles against the glass many times. If he had moved sideways a little, he would have passed the glass and had the dinner. It never occurred to him because his mind told him to aim directly at his target.

White House Takes Fateful Step in Aluminum Industry

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Johnson administration has taken a fateful step that may change America's economic course in the near future. For the White House has endeavored to interfere with the law of supply and demand by proclaiming that it will dump on the market within the next year 200,000 tons of aluminum in an unprecedented effort to break down an already announced price increase of half a cent a pound.

No such pressure was exerted a few months ago when the labor unions forced an increase in wage scales amounting to $20 a week or more for employees and other benefits, the high cost of which is still difficult for the industry to calculate.

Just last week the aluminum companies increased their prices to cover their wage costs. The new prices are still below what they were in 1961. The Federal government today has no legal right to fix either wages or prices. Such laws are usually passed only in wartime. The existence of a stockpile of 1,400,000 tons of surplus aluminum held by the government for many years now has been used as a club over the aluminum industry. Of this amount, 500,000 tons can be sold without specific authorization by Congress. So the question is one of motive—whether the objective is to get rid of 200,000 tons of aluminum in the next year or just to break down the price and put the companies in a hole.

When a price increase was announced by some aluminum companies last week, the Administration let it be known that it was thinking of selling some of the metal it held. But it was denied that this had any connection with the price changes. Then a few days later it was officially admitted that there was a relationship. Executives of several aluminum companies were called to Washington to discuss projects for the disposal of some of the accumulated aluminum. They offered plan after plan to buy 200,000 tons as a part of an agreement to cover purchases of 500,000 tons in the next 14 years. They thought at first that this proposal would be accepted but their offers were abruptly rejected.

The negotiations were carried on with the Secretary of Defense but, as the story goes, he had to make a telephone call to President Johnson in Texas after each meeting. The net result was an announcement at a press conference in Washington on Saturday that the price increases were above the so-called "guideposts." The chairman of the President's Economic Advisory Board finally said that the price rise had violated the "guideposts" laid down by the Administration, whereby price changes would not be regarded as justified unless they came within certain limits of productivity.

The aluminum companies, on the other hand, claim that the "guideposts" were measured by the Administration on smelting alone and that this is only a small part of the business. The whole maneuver has caused dismay. Now many business men are puzzled and frustrated. They wonder if the White House is going to try to run the economic system by arbitrary interference in price-making without using any corresponding pressures to hold down wage demands of the unions is major industries.

It is precisely this kind of one-sided application of governmental power that can throw the whole economic system out of gear. Indeed, fears have been developing recently in financial circles that the Administration may be artificially holding down interest rates today by its influence with certain members of the Federal Reserve Board. Meanwhile, bank loans are rising to unprecedented figures through the bankers themselves are pleading constantly for higher interest rates as they are afraid of the excesses in borrowing.

The natural laws of supply and demand can be interfered with only for a short time before there is a loss of confidence with the business community. This sort of thing can bring on recessions.

Business men feel that if price control is really necessary, then wage control also should be applied. They contend that the right way to handle the problem is to let Congress pass a law on the whole subject for major industries rather than let the President make the "laws" to suit the whims of his political or economic advisors.

Today's Business Mirror

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury and the New York Stock Exchange have almost directly opposite views on the type of changes needed to unlock large amounts of investment capital.

A survey sponsored by the Exchange indicated that many billions of dollars would be shifted if the maximum tax on capital gains were reduced from 25 per cent to 20 or perhaps to 12.5 per cent.

Increase Advocated

The administration advocated an increase in capital gains taxes in the 1964 tax bill, but Congress knocked out this provision. Another measure rejected by Congress would have placed a tax on accumulated capital gains transferred at death to a person's heirs.

A $10,000 investment in a growth company which has been putting most of its profits into expansion instead of dividends might grow to $20,000 in the bull market of the past few years. The holder of such an investment pays no tax on his $10,000 paper profit until he decides to sell.

If he has held the stock for more than six months, the tax on the $10,000 profit would be half his regular income tax rate up to a maximum of 25 per cent. Thus, if he is in a 50 per cent or higher bracket, he would pay $2,500 in taxes.

Suppose he holds the stock valued at $20,000 when it is inherited by a son. If it grows to $30,000 after a few more years, the son would have to pay taxes on $10,000 profit if he sells it, but there would be no tax on the original $10,000 profit.

The Exchange-sponsored report said many investors feel "locked in" and refrain from selling large investments because of the capital gains tax. Even a reduction of from 25 to 20 per cent in the maximum tax would cause enough selling to bring extra revenue to the Treasury, the Exchange said.

Taxes to Determine

A recent private study concluded that high income taxes do not deter businessmen from striving hard to make more money, but its questionable whether this premise applies to the handling of investments.

Assistant Treasury Secretary Stanley S. Surrey, the foremost administration tax expert, recently described the provision permitting tax-free transfer of capital gains at death as one of "our most serious" structural tax problems.

Secretary Henry H. Fowler has indicated that his view is similar, although he has not placed as strong an emphasis on the subject as did his predecessor, Douglas Dillon.

Dillon said a man with earned income and dividends will pay substantially more taxes than the individual who holds low dividend, high growth stocks.

"I see no justification for such widely disparate tax treatment of two individuals who through choice or circumstance happen to follow a different financial strategy for making money," Dillon said in his last speech before leaving the Treasury.

Thus, both the Exchange and the Treasury see ways to increase the mobility of capital — but by methods poles apart.

Blindness Gains In World at Alarming Rate

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 10 million blind people in the world, and blindness is increasing at an alarming rate, an organization devoted to fighting blindness reported today.

In the United States alone, 350,000 people are totally blind and 650,000 others are functionally blind, that is, they are so handicapped they cannot read this even with the aid of eyeglasses.

And while blindness increases, approximately 80 per cent of the blindness cases result from disease whose cause is still unknown to science.

This information was made available by Research To Prevent Blindness, Inc., as that voluntary health agency opened a four-day conference on major problems of vision.

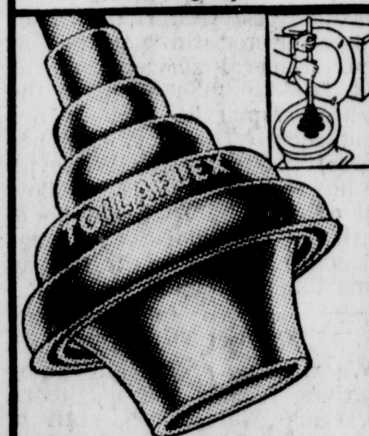

Here is some additional data: In addition to the million blind or functionally blind Americans, 90 million Americans have some eye malfunction. This is almost half the U.S. population.

The nation spends $1 billion a year to care for persons already blind and less than $10 million a year on eye research.

Only 5 per cent of blindness cases are caused by injuries, and only about 3 per cent are caused by poisoning.

The greatest single cause of blindness is trachoma, a virus disease of the eyelids that can lead to serious scratching of the eyeballs. Most prevalent in Africa, trachoma affects about a sixth of the world's population.

West Camp Man Faces 2 Charges In 2-Car Mishap

Charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failure to keep right after a two-car collision on Route 9W three miles north of Saugerties village, Cyrilus Myer, 58, of Box 113, West Camp, is slated for a hearing later before Town Police Justice Ernest E. Schirmer, Town of Saugerties.

According to Trooper Fred Cooper of Kingston substation, Mrs. Caroline McCutcheon, 50, of RD 1, Box 433, Saugerties, was driving a 1961 sedan south on Route 9W when the 1959 vehicle operated by Myer reportedly crossed into the southbound lane, hit the left rear of the McCutcheon sedan, and allegedly continued north without stopping. The mishap at the rock-cut at West Camp near that community's fire station, investigated by Trooper Robert Mackey, occurred at about 4:30 p. m., Saturday.

Woman Is Hurt In 3-Car Crash Along Route 28

A 24-year-old woman was injured and a motorist was cited for a vehicle violation as the result of a three-car collision at 3 p. m. Sunday at the intersection of Route 28 and Hurley Mt. Road west of Route 209.

State Trooper Fred Cooper of the Kingston substation, said the cars were driven by Carl Weiss, 28, of Mt. Rutse Road, Rhinebeck, and Shaker Heights, Ohio; Albert Shay, 76, of 10 Bond Street, city, and Jerdon Crudup, 50, Box 234, Hurley Mt. Road, Town of Ulster.

Crudup was cited by Trooper Carl Van Wagenen on a charge of failure to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly, Town of Ulster.

Weiss' wife, Marilyn, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance. She was treated for abrasions of the forehead and released.

Troopers said Weiss was driving east on Route 28, Shay stopped on Hurley Mt. Road at the intersection, and Crudup traveling west on Route 28 stopped and then attempted a left turn when the mishap occurred.

3 Persons Hurt In City Crashes

Three persons were injured in two separate traffic accidents Saturday afternoon in the city.

Melissa Lother, 62, of Chichester, reportedly suffered head and right arm injuries in a three-car chain reaction mishap about 4:25 Saturday afternoon at Albany and Wiltwyck Avenues. Police said she was a passenger in a car operated by Louis Latronica, 67, of Box 27, Mt. Pleasant. They said that the Latronica vehicle collided with a car operated by Catherine M. Bannigan, 20, of Leggs Mills Road, Lake Katrine, which in turn collided with a station wagon driven by Edward M. Weiss, 25, of Boice's Lane and Dogwood Street, Town of Ulster. They said that the Weiss and Bannigan vehicles were stopped in a line of traffic.

Patrolmen Ira Hadsel and Jerry Vittek investigated.

Two other persons suffered whiplash and other injuries in a two-car collision about 2:35 p. m. Saturday at Wurts and Abbeel Streets.

Police said that a car driven by Catherine Deuire, 47, of 174 Foxhall Avenue, was stopped for a red traffic light at the intersection when her vehicle was struck in the rear by a tractor-trailer unit owned by the Automobile Co. Inc., of Mahwah, N. J., and operated by Wallace Conklin, 27, of Hoe Avenue, the Bronx. The woman operator suffered a sprained neck. Rose Boyle, 23, of 611 Delaware Avenue, a passenger in her car suffered a strained neck. Both women were released after treatment at Benedictine Hospital.

Volunteer fire fighters from Wawarsing, Napanoch and Kerhonkson on Sunday afternoon battled a fire that destroyed a large two-story frame building and partially destroyed a second frame structure off Route 209 at Wawarsing.

The origin of the fire was not determined.

The property many years ago was operated as a boarding establishment. It now belongs to a New Jersey resident, whose name was not available, according to fire officials, who said the buildings were in a run-down condition at the time the fire was discovered shortly before 4 p. m. yesterday.

Wawarsing Fire Chief James Terwilliger was in command of firemen from the three fire units, who remained at the scene for about three hours. Through the combined efforts of the fire fighters a nearby bungalow was saved.

Firemen said the blaze apparently originated in the large building which burned to the ground.

There were no injuries.

Reid Urges Unity For Winners of Recent Elections

Joseph S. Reid, unsuccessful candidate for supervisor from Rosendale, said today "we must get behind the candidates who were elected by the majority and give them our support."

"After all, this is America," Reid added, "and we must abide by the will of the majority, which is our democratic process."

Reid, who is Democratic town chairman in Rosendale, coupled this call for unity with words of appreciation and gratitude to those who assisted in the past campaign. He called the Democratic organization in Rosendale the best working team ever known.

Report 3 Youths Injured in Two Paltz Incidents

Two incidents in the New Paltz area Saturday night are under investigation by State Police and New Paltz police officers.

At 10 p. m. Saturday New Paltz police, town constables and state police were called to investigate a fight outside a Main Street bar. They found three youths had been injured. George Scott Jr., 18, of North Road, Highland, had injuries to his left hand and fingers and was treated at New Paltz Medical Center. Arthur J. O'Connor Jr., 19, of Route 9W, Highland, received a laceration over the right eye which required two stitches when he was taken to New Paltz Medical Center. Robert Bliss, 19, of Yonkers, also received a cut on the nose and his glasses were broken. The officers reported the affair "started over a girl."

Around midnight the New Paltz officers were called to investigate an incident on Plattkill Avenue where Jerome Friedman and Harry Orlik, college students, had become involved in an affair which sent them to Kingston Hospital where they were treated and released. This affair was still under investigation by State Police today after they had been summoned by college authorities.

On that date Tyte and Raymond Joseph Frisbie, 16, of Veteran, Town of Saugerties, were treated at a vacant house in Veteran, Town of Saugerties, where they were fatally shot and Joseph Vertis, 26, of Box 55, Saugerties, was also shot when the two men attempted to catch the two youths who had been surprised in a vacant house in Veteran.

Tyte entered a plea of innocent today before Judge Mino and his counsel, Frank Campochiaro, indicated he would seek a hearing under the Huntley decision on the question of admission of a confession or statement made by Tyte at the time of arrest. District Attorney Torracca indicated he intended to offer such a statement.

Attorney S. James Matthews, appearing for Frisbie, made a formal motion for public funds to hire a private investigator, a surveyor and a photographer. Judge Mino reserved on the motion. Matthews also served notice that he intended to move under the Huntley decision on behalf of Frisbie.

Campochiaro also indicated he would move for inspection of the grand jury minutes in the case of Tyte.

No injuries were reported in an accident on Morgan Hill Road, about a mile and a half from Route 28-A at 9:45 p. m. Sunday. Winifred K. Sodde-man, 25, of 13 North Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie driving a car owned by Renate J. Eller of Vassar College, lost control of the car when it went off the pavement. The car went down an embankment. Sodde-man told Deputy Sheriffs Bernard Ellsworth and Burdette H. Wolven he was traveling about 40 miles an hour when he lost control of the vehicle.

Weidner Named To Head Olive Scout Campaign

Campaign Chairman Charles Weidner IV of West Shokan has been appointed to head the Town of Olive 1965 Boy Scout finance campaign by Frank H. Reis of Kingston, general chairman of the 1965 Rip Van Winkle Council finance drive.

"This year the Town of Olive campaign will bring the Scouting message to more local homes than ever before," Weidner said. "We will see that the campaign slogan, 'Scouting Builds Better Men,' understood in terms of the vital impact of the Boy Scout movement on the boys and young men of the Town of Olive."

No stranger to Scouting, Weidner was Scoutmaster of Troop 163 of West Shokan from 1947 to 1953 and has served on the troop committee from 1954 until the present time. Currently he is the chairman of the troop 163 committee. As a Boy Scout, Weidner gained the rank of Eagle Scout. In addition to his Scouting work, Weidner has held various posts in the Olive Memorial Post 1627 of the American Legion.

Team captains to take charge of area groups of solicitors have been named. E. Lee Denmen of Ashokan will be the captain for the Shokan-Ashokan area. Martin Warnes will be the captain for the Boiceville area while David Barringer will be in charge of the Samsonville area. Lester Spencer Davis will be the captain of the Olive Bridge group and Herbert Wells will head the group soliciting in the West Shokan area.

"More than 25 Scout-minded persons are preparing to make a concerted effort to assure the success of the 1965 drive," Weidner said. "These volunteers and many others who will assist in various ways, are fully aware of the necessity to raise sufficient funds to assure that Scouting's growth in the Town of Olive and in the 24 other towns making up the Rip Van Winkle Council will continue." At the present time, Cub Scout Pack 63 and Troop 163 are serving the boys in the Town of Olive.

The chairman stressed that the number of Ulster and Greene County boys participating in Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting and Explorer programs is rising constantly, creating a need for addi-

Could Move Up Gemini 7 Launch To December 2

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The launching of the Gemini 7 astronauts may be advanced to as early as Dec. 2 if preparations continue to run smoothly, sources at the space center say.

The present target date for the start of the 14-day flight by astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr. is Dec. 8. It is the scheduled first leg of the ambitious double Gemini shot.

The sources reported check-outs of the Titan 2 rocket and Gemini 7 have progressed so well that "any date between Dec. 2 and Dec. 8 might become our target, with the possible exception of Dec. 5, which is a Sunday."

Launchings are avoided on Sunday because of the great amount of overtime pay involved.

Gemini 6 astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford will be launched nine days after Gemini 7. The two spacecraft are supposed to maneuver close together and fly in formation.

Hints From Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

An idea for babies' small things—rubber pants, socks, etc., when doing laundry:

Hang them all on a skirt hanger (the kind which holds many skirts). When all the clips are used, pin the rest of the tiny garments on the bars between the clips.

Hang the entire hanger on the line this way. It prevents dropping the tiny things, saves line space, and when you take it in, just hang it up 'til ready to put things away.

Kathleen De Luca

Dear Heloise:

Is it true that when you boil eggs, they should be started in cold water? I have always used hot water from the tap.

J. J.

Yes, it is. When you remove cold eggs from the refrigerator, and put them directly into boiling water, the shells crack. Try putting them in cold water (be sure there is at least one inch of water above the eggs, and that they are not crowded). When the water starts to boil, lower the fire and simmer the eggs for 15 minutes.

Cool them immediately in cold water (to stop the cooking) and the whites won't be tough.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Recently I received a brass, lazy Susan with four tiered crystal dishes for relishes, mints, etc.

Two of the dishes were broken and could not be replaced.

Not wanting to let the lazy Susan go to waste, I decided to use it as a jewelry tree.

It's perfect for earrings, pins, etc., and on the center stem, I keep my necklaces.

It looks pretty, and since it revolves, I can find the piece I want immediately.

Margaret Lockhart

Dear Heloise:

When my girls were young, and wore white anklets, every once in a while I would put the anklets in a color-remover solution, and they always came out looking like new.

Dorothy Edwards

Dear Folks:

Here is an important tip on care and maintenance of your fine furniture:

Select the wax or polish best suited to your type of furniture (read the labels on the containers before making your purchase, since different products are designed to give different effects—such as high, low or satin gloss).

Do not use oil polish on waxed furniture, and vice versa; choose either oil or wax, then STAY with it. Wax and oils do not mix. They are incompatible.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

To open a stuck bottle or jar, I sprinkle dab of scouring powder on a damp cloth (some for grasping the lid, and some for gripping the bottom), and the lid usually comes off easily.

Dear Heloise:

WAIT... don't throw away that old, soft brush to your electric toothbrush. Its usefulness is far from over!

I was about to discard an old brush when it dawned on me that I could use the old brush on the electric handle, to clean under and around the faucets in the bathroom lavatory.

It reaches all the hard-to-get-to places.

Try it! It really does the job! I shall keep my electric toothbrush 'til my dying day.

Johnson Explains Three Points in Breathing Study

"Respiratory problems are growing at a staggering rate, and we must know their prevalence and types to bring service, diagnosis and treatment," said E. Robert Johnson, executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc.

He was commenting on the Respiratory Field Survey-Breathing Test Study that started last month and is still under way. The survey study was organized and is directed by the County TB-Health Association's Christmas Seal program. At the request of the State Department of Health and with full support of the County Department of Health and the Ulster County Medical Society.

1,500 Are in Survey

Johnson said there are three points concerning the field survey and breathing test study that should be discussed based upon requested telephone and verbal inquiries.

Fifteen hundred households (this involves every seventh household in the city) are being contacted by telephone and all members 35 years and over are invited to take part in the survey-breathing test study. The bus unit for the breathing test is presently located at the George Washington School.

The bus will later move to several other locations as city areas are covered, and the staff will be doing vital test studies through Dec. 10.

Today, Johnson noted, misconceptions and questions concerning this intricately organized and particularly valuable and vital health study must be considered.

The executive director of the TB and Health Association cited the three points concerning the field survey-breathing test.

Study Takes 10 Minutes

Point One—The total time for you to be registered and go through the study is considerably less than 10 minutes, and everyone has an appointment. Two persons are scheduled every 10 minutes and are never pressed for time. Thus it would take hardly noticeable minimum of your time, yet the value of your participation is invaluable. There is no disrobing for X-ray; it is the old familiar procedure you all know from the old TB X-ray units. Blowing on the spirometer for breath capacity could not be simpler. You just blow, and a fresh disposable mouthpiece is used for each participant.

Many Reconsider

Point Two — Every person in every Selected Household is absolutely essential to the success of the study. Already some scheduled participants have failed to appear and some members of the Selected Households have declined when urged to participate. Many now have reconsidered, and have called back to ask that they now be given an appointment. All of you who declined and now realize the value of your involvement in this community Breathing Study should telephone the TB-Health Association at 124 Green Street, Kingston. All calls concerning the Survey Study, appointments and arrangements must be made to that office.

Johnson said that every person who is in the Selected Household groups, is absolutely essential, if the study in Kingston is to reflect the facts, and at the same time reflect Kingston's awareness and concern in its own people and the people of Ulster County.

S-A War Vet Dies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Starr M. Wetmore, 90, credited with leading the attack on San Juan Hill by Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders, died at a Veterans Administration hospital Friday night.

The Spanish-American War veteran was wounded in that battle. A son, Mack Wetmore, said his father blew the charge.

Order Halts Benefits

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — The payment of jobless benefits to 5,300 workers, who were idled during and after a strike against General Motors Corp., has been halted by a temporary injunction.

The injunction was obtained by General Motors following a ruling by a state unemployment insurance appeal board. The appeal board upheld an earlier decision that allowed the jobless benefits to be paid to the workers.

No Holds Barred In Filipino Vote Set for Tuesday

MANILA (AP) — They've tossed everything into the pot for one of the biggest presidential elections ever cooked up on the Philippines, Tuesday is election day. The voters have been exposed to the longest concerted campaign in this nation's history.

The major parties, the Nacionalistas and the Liberals, held their conventions last year to give their candidates time to cover the major islands among the 7,000 that make up the country.

The campaign has boiled down to a two-way fight between President Diosdado Macapagal, for the Liberals, and Senate President Ferdinand E.

Marcos of the Nacionalista party.

Both are claiming victory already but cautious money rates the election a tossup.

It would be hard to find anything — good or bad — that has not been said, printed or broadcast about both men.

Full-page advertisements extol the brilliant war record of Marcos. The next page is filled with his "sins," including one of "ill-treating the Filipino nation, its heroes and leaders."

Macapagal is described as a "man of the masses" — which every Filipino politician must be in his campaign promises. His ads recite a litany of successes.

No holds are barred to in election. Paid advertisements are even interspersed in children's television programs.

Macapagal and Marcos have been making last minute appeals, especially in the areas where they hope to build up big majorities.

Political rallies go on until the early hours of the morning. Rural folk will come for miles with their families, sleeping in village plazas until the candidates appear.

The Philippines has lived with vote frauds since gaining independence from the United States in 1946. Each election the government election commission tries to devise new schemes to prevent vote scandals.

The columns this week will continue the discussion of limit raises and specifically Jacoby responses to partner's major suit opening to show a strong raise, ranging anywhere from enough for game on up.

The bid used to show this strong support is two no-trump. Of course that means that you can't respond with a normal two no-trump but the only thing this really costs is the feeling of satisfaction you get when you can make sure that if anyone is going to play no-trump, it will be you.

How do you use this two no-trump response?

The first step is to find a partner who will use it with you. Then wait until a hand comes up that calls for this special two no-trump bid. Then use it and hope that your partner remembers. He may forget the first time but he won't forget the next time.

Today's hand would be bid to a spade slam with almost any system. When it was dealt in a duplicate game most pairs reached seven spades but the Jacoby two no-trump response kept those using it from getting to seven.

How did this happen? When you use the Jacoby two no-trump response the opener hand by jumping right to four spades. He delivers the message: "Partner, I have no interest in exchanging more information."

North intended to bid a slam all the time. His four no-trump call was a check in case South just happened to have only one ace. When South showed three aces, North knew that he could not have even the jack of trumps as an extra and settled for the small slam.

Katy's Marriage Just About Top News on Video

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Katy, "The Farmer's Daughter," finally married her congressman, Chuck Connors, was captured and tortured by renegade Apaches, Uncle Martin, the Martian, invented a machine to make people lovable, and Perry Mason solved another case nobody was able to follow.

In other words, it was a normal television weekend. Like so many television weekends this season, there was nothing much on the networks to get particularly excited about.

Press Agents Excited
ABC press agents, however, were pretty excited about the effect of the delayed wedding ceremony of "The Farmer's Daughter."

Reporters attended the wedding in Hollywood when the show was filmed three months ago. As the broadcast date approached, studio publicists arranged a big Washington wedding reception for last Monday — date of the planned broadcast. Then the network suddenly switched the show from Monday to Friday night.

Somebody must have been doing something right. All the publicity, including Perle Mesta's capital bash five nights ahead of time, gave the little comedy what probably will be measured as its largest audience.

"Branded," NBC's Sunday evening Western, launched a two-part story with our hero left dangling by his tied wrists from a tree. Before that came a curious half-hour. It was partly a savage fight between the bad Indians and a squad of Negro cavalrymen—and partly a lecture on President Lincoln's postwar aims, brotherhood and the dignity of man by Connors.

It meant well but it didn't work out very well from a dramatic standpoint. CBS' "My Favorite Martian" during its first two years was a gay little fantasy which appealed primarily to the younger audience but often had some sly satire and wit to amuse older viewers.

Sunday Standbys

This season the scripts seem to be written by a heavier hand. Sunday evening used to contain any number of programs of Now the responsibility lies mainly with Ed Sullivan, who in spite of his interest in rock 'n' roll singers does maintain high vaudeville standards, and good, old "Bonanza," which looks very tall in the saddle in contrast with other shows.

Data Processing Group Meets Nov. 9

The installation of an IBM 1710 Process Control Computer at Danskammer Point Steam Station will be the subject of a presentation at the Nov. 9 meeting of the Data Processing Management Association at the Red Door restaurant on Dutchess Turnpike, Poughkeepsie.

The principal speaker will be Gilbert L. Wolf, District Control Systems Representative for IBM in Syracuse, who served as project leader for the 1710 installation at Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's major electric generating station north of Newburgh.

The 1710 computer at Danskammer Point was placed in operation during 1963. Information from instruments located throughout the station is fed directly into the computer where it is instantly analyzed and tested against an optimum pro-

Homeless Horse Garaged

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — When police captured a horse running loose in a residential area, the next problem, where to stable it, was solved easily. Plains-clothesmen Hector Jordan and Pete Perez roped the critter and led it to the police station. It will await its owner tied in the police garage, the same building where horses were kept by the police department before the advent of the horseless carriage.

Wolf has a BS and MS in mechanical engineering from Drexel Institute of Technology. He joined IBM in 1960 and was assigned to the team installing the process control computer at Standard Oil of Indiana.

He served as product planner at the San Jose plant in 1961, worked as Project Leader on the Danskammer Point installation during 1962 and 1963 and was named District Control Systems Representative for IBM in Syracuse during 1964.

Dear Abby . . .

She's Gotta Be Kidding!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There has been quite a lot written in your column about office parties which exclude the husband and wives of the employees. But what would the rules on this one be? My husband has a small office, with only one secretary. Last month he acquired a rather important account he had been working on for some time. His secretary (unmarried) gave him a "celebration" party at her apartment last Saturday night. Other "mixed" couples (not married to each other) were present. Of course my husband was told that his wife was not invited, yet he accepted the invitation anyway. He said he felt "compelled" to go, and there was no way of getting out of it, so he had to go alone. How about this?

"SAT HOME" DEAR SAT: Your husband could have replied that unless his wife were invited to the "celebration" of his new account, she shouldn't count on him. "Compelled" by whom? His secretary? Aw, c'mon.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago my sister got a divorce from a swell guy I'll call Max. It was more her fault than it was his. They have two lovely children who are doing the suffering because of the break-up. Max was willing to try to make a go of the marriage, but my sister wasn't. Anyway, she is poisoning the kids' minds against their father, which isn't right. Here is our problem.

My husband and I (and also some other members of our family) still like Max, and we see him socially, but never when my sister is there. We have nothing against HIM, so why shouldn't we? My sister gets mad every time she hears about it. Now she says we have to make up our minds. It's either Max or her. What should we do?

ABC Glad Horton Schedule Opened For 'Shenandoah'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Man called Shenandoah" almost didn't make it to the television channels this season.

It was touch and go whether Robert Horton, five-year veteran of "Wagon Train" and more recently star of Broadway and night clubs, would be able to fulfill his commitment to the series. Make it he did, and ABC is glad. "Shenandoah" is one of the few solid hits among the season's new shows.

Hit With Audience
At least the Monday night show seems to be a hit in the audience ratings. The critics took less kindly to it — but what do they know?

"I'd estimate the reviews were 60 per cent against the show," Horton reported without a trace of vindictiveness. "Of the other 40 per cent, most were not completely favorable, but found things to like in it, particularly my own performance."

The apparent success of "Shenandoah" satisfies Horton in more ways than fiscal. He never doubted that it would succeed — "I knew from the moment I read the pilot script that it would be a hit."

Horton's only doubts were whether he would be physically able to continue on the show. All because he tried to pick up a bag of groceries.

"It happened a few months ago, just before I was going to open at the Persian Room of the Hotel Plaza in New York," he recalled. "My wife and I were bringing some groceries back to our apartment, and I started to lift a bag that couldn't have weighed more than six pounds."

Something snapped. Horton felt intense pain in his back, and sought relief in a hot bath. That helped, but he found he couldn't move from the tub. His wife Marilyn helped him to bed, where he remained for five days.

"Except going out to have my back X-rayed, I didn't leave the apartment for five weeks," he said. Doctors diagnosed his problem as a severe strain and warned that undue exertion might bring serious results, possibly permanent injury.

Gave Mild Protest
Obviously it wasn't the bag of

DEAR IN: Tell your sister that she has the privilege of choosing her friends, and so have you. And if she wants to drop YOU because you still see Max socially, it's her privilege. But she is the one who is making the choice, not you.

DEAR ABBY: I work in the office of a large industrial plant. Everyone in the office calls everyone else by his first name. In many cases their last names are not even known. This is very embarrassing when I meet some of my co-workers in men old enough to be my grandfather. "Harry, Jack and Steve." It sounds so intimate and fresh. I was reared to respect my elders. How can I greet these older men in public without addressing them by their first names when I don't know their last names?

EMBARRASSED
Ignore their names. Just say "Hello" or "How do you do, Sir?"

DEAR ABBY: If "Appalled" was truly appalled when someone thanked her for a wedding gift on a Christmas card, I wonder what she would think about the Christmas card I received two years ago. On one side was a Christmas greeting. And on the other side was scribbled, "Thanks for the donation you made in 'Mother G's' memory." ("Mother G" had passed away early in October of that year.) Needless to say, "Mother G" was her mother-in-law.

Formula Works For Jesse James, On TV, at Least

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How do you make a television hero out of a real-life criminal? ABC and 20th Century-Fox have fashioned a half-hour Western on the life and bad times of Jesse James. Although the real nature of Jesse has been dimmed by a parade of movies romanticizing his deeds, the plain fact is that he heisted many a bank and train in a highly unlawful manner.

Yet every Monday night "The Legend of Jesse James" shows Jesse and Frank as misguided Missouri boys who are out to do good by robbing banks. The formula seems to work, since the series has been lodging in the lower reaches of the top 40 shows in audience ratings, and anything in the upper 40 is considered safe.

Jesse is played by Christopher Jones, 24, a graduate of an orphanage, the U.S. Army and the New York stage. He is a strong-minded chap of the Actor's Studio School — he married the head man's daughter, Susan Strasberg — and he has his own ideas about how the role should be played.

"There are enough incidents in the real history of Jesse James to supply stories for two or three years," he pointed out. "Why don't they use that material instead of trying to make him a Robin Hood all the time?"

But what about J. Edgar Hoover and all the others who feel that crime shouldn't pay, even on half-hour television Westerns?

"Well, you could open with a shot of Jesse being shot by Bob Ford," Jones reasoned. "That would show that it did Jess no good in the end. As for the moral attitudes, they could be expressed by Frank James."

Chris Jones is the beneficiary of a growing number of fans, particularly of the younger group who seem to identify with him as a rebellious youth.

He is well cast in the role. His mother died when he was 3, and Chris was reared in a Memphis, Tenn., orphanage, where he was constantly at odds with the management. He walked away from the place at 16 and gained permission from his father, a Jackson, Tenn., construction worker, to join the Army.

Chris got along no better in the Army. After two years service, he drifted to New York, where he started his acting career. He had a long run in "Night of the Lguana" and a short one in "The Lady of the Camellias" — The director fired him before opening.

Of the 5 million books printed by the world's presses every year, about half are for classroom use, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Blue Cross
"separates fact
from opinion."

We also try to separate fantasy from both fact and studied opinion. Any organization with 7,500,000 members—like Greater New York's Blue Cross—seems destined to be surrounded by myths.

Here are the facts in answer to three of the more persistent fantasies:
Myth: Blue Cross pays hospitals 50¢ for an aspirin tablet.

Fact: We pay less for aspirin and hospital-dispensed drugs than subscribers would pay when buying them at a discount house. Even druggists can't buy drugs or aspirin at prices as low as those paid by Blue Cross!

Myth: Blue Cross is merely a collection agency for hospitals.

Fact: Greater New York's Blue Cross is a trustee for more than $350 million contributed each year by over 7,500,000 people to pre-pay for needed hospital care. It purchases the best available care at the best price . . . helps to make sure it is available and delivered to subscribers and the community when needed.

Myth: Blue Cross financial records are not audited.

Fact: It's a mystery to us how this one got started. Not only are we subject to an audit each year by a world-famous firm of certified public accountants, but auditors and examiners from the New York State Department of Insurance also check our books regularly.

So we are audited. And, as one further step for the protection of our members, Blue Cross itself audits the books of each member hospital, employing three accounting firms for this purpose.

You're in the best of company with Blue Cross—the finest protection any company can provide for its employees.

Your Move, Partner

ATHENS, Tenn. (AP) — A bridge game is holding up progress in dredging the Hiwassee River. The bridge spans the Hiwassee between McMinn and Bradley Counties. The foursome — the counties and the towns of Calhoun and Charleston — won't claim it. Charlie Beasley, executive director of the McMinn County Committee of 100, says the bridge must be moved before the Tennessee Valley Authority can continue dredging the river.

It is said that about 95 per cent of the water used by U.S. industry is reusable.

Fight Threatens To Divide Ruling Uganda Congress

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Communism has become an issue in a backstage fight that threatens to divide the ruling Uganda People's Congress.

Two opposition parties are whipping up an anti-Communist campaign with warnings of assassination plots and subversion.

They have called on the government for an assurance that the threat of communism to Uganda's kingdoms and traditional institutions was being countered.

The left wing has hit back, charging the existence of anti-Communist hysteria designed to oust Prime Minister Milton Obote, by force if necessary. A Communist core is active in Uganda but even opposition leaders agree privately that the Red threat is being exaggerated for political motives. They contend Obote and some of his Cabinet colleagues have been reluctant to order a crackdown on Communist activities.

This also is broadly the contention of a moderate, generally pro-Western faction of the ruling party. Minister of State Grace Ibingira, 33, a British-schooled lawyer, took over as party secretary-general from leftist John Kakonge and later had nine militant pro-Communists expelled from the party.

Referring to a campaign against him, Ibingira has said: "They call me an imperialist but the fact is we have no evidence of any Western power maintaining paid agents in this country. "We do know, we have definite proof, that certain Eastern powers pay money directly to Uganda agents."

They are being protected, he charged, by some Uganda People's Congress officials who hope to employ them in internal politics.

The basic cause of a split within the ruling party is fear by the southern Bantu of domination by the minority Nilotic people of the north.

With a few exceptions, the political split corresponds to the tribal division. Obote is Nilotic, Ibingira Bantu.

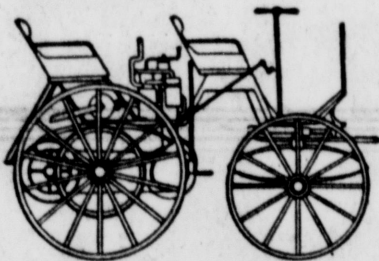

There is no tide in the Black Sea.

"It won't mush on curves at 70, won't swerve in a panic stop at 80, and won't give a fig if you run it all day at 90. The Mercedes-Benz—a most unflappable car"

Amazing things happen when engineers build a car to be the best—not the best seller. The Mercedes-Benz 230S hugs the road, doesn't wallow over bumps. Its body is a patented safety feature. Read on for more facts about this extraordinary motor car.

SURPRISINGLY few people today realize that the men who founded Mercedes-Benz invented the automobile. Gottlieb Daimler and Karl Benz ran gasoline-powered cars in 1886 (Henry Ford's amazing Model T was still 22 years off).

1886—the car that started it all.

Without market researchers or sales experts to guide them, Daimler and Benz simply went ahead building the best possible cars.

They did splendidly.

Today's Mercedes-Benz 230S also endures without fancy marketing plans or piles of sales research. Its destiny rests with engineers. A unique situation—producing a unique automobile. In fact, David E. Davis, Jr., Editor of Car and Driver has said,

"You could be blindfolded, spun around three times and dropped into a Mercedes-Benz, and when you sat down you'd know it was a Mercedes-Benz."

Differences you can feel

Fervent engineering research has earned Mercedes-Benz more than 5,200 patents. And bestows the 230S with differences you can feel. For example, all four wheels are independently sprung. Each wheel soaks up bumps and thumps individually—and smoothly.

"The wheels always remain stubbornly planted on the road," says one automotive journal. "Even the lumpiest surface can't budge them from their bulldog grip."

Goodbye guesswork

You aim a 230S down the road like a gun. The car goes precisely where you point it and stays where you put it—even in heavy gusts at 70 mph.

Tire kickers: check steering tightness, too. Bang the steering wheel of a 230S sharply with your fist. No wobble or shake. Then try the same trick on other cars. A revealing comparison.

Brakes you can trust

Normal pedal effort draws the 230S to a swift, even stop. Panic stops from 80 mph—over and over—won't faze its staunch front disc brakes (please don't try that on your present car!). There are, in fact, two braking systems. Front and rear brakes act separately. You actually have a spare braking system. It costs more to build a car this way—but Mercedes-Benz engineers will never sacrifice safety to save dollars.

The 230S is built in Germany where there is no highway speed limit—but there is a heavy tax on gasoline and engine size. You gain from an engine designed to suit these harsh performance and economy demands.

The 230S uses a 6-cylinder engine with a top speed of 109 mph. Hardly awesome in this age of 400-hp hot rods. But consider this: you could run the Mercedes-Benz 230S up to 90 mph, stay there, and cruise for weeks without strain (roads and speed laws permitting). And you would get almost twice as many miles-per-gallon as with most V8's.

Surprising sidelight: the 230S has a single overhead camshaft engine design, a feature on Mercedes-Benz cars since 1951. Detroit cars adopted it for the first time this year.

Squeak-proof body

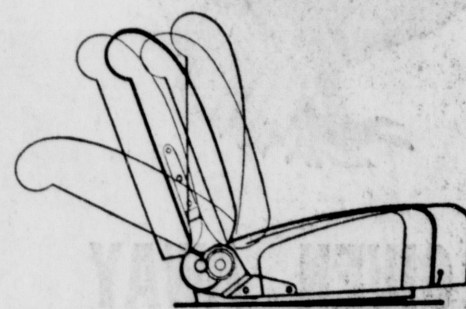

The common bolted-up body and frame construction dismays Mercedes-Benz engineers. Bolts can work loose to squeak and rattle. The body of the 230S is a rigid steel shell, welded at 10,000 places. The whole car, with humane care, will be blithely rolling along when ordinary cars are on the junk heap.

Showroom visitors: run a hand along the body of a Mercedes-Benz. No "orange peel" texture. Seven enamel coats (applied by dipping, electrostatic spraying and lastly by hand spraying) make a flawless finish. It had better be. One of every 11 Mercedes-Benz factory workers is an inspector.

Designed for people

The 230S is a surpassingly comfortable car. For good reason: Mercedes-Benz has never been drawn into the "Annual Model Change" hurly-burly. The car is designed around its occupants—not shaped to a stylist's whim.

Bring your ruler: Measure your car's interior. Then measure a 230S. It's probably bigger. Despite far leaner outside dimensions, the 230S actually provides more interior space than many full-sized American cars.

Seat backs recline with the twist of a knob.

Orthopedic physicians helped Mercedes-Benz designers conquer driving fatigue. They found that a firm seat prevents muscle cramp and fatigue. And the seats in the 230S are erect. You don't feel like you're sitting in a box of marshmallows.

Not for snobs

Car lovers find the 230S exquisitely crafted. Snobs find it utterly disappointing. No buried walnut picnic tables. No espresso coffee makers. Such trivia add precious weight and cost. The efficiency-minded Mercedes-Benz engineers won't tolerate it.

Safety that's not buckled on

There is no "safety controversy" at Mercedes-Benz. Safety is built in. Item: the 230S body is a patented safety feature. Front and rear sections are designed to absorb the shock in case of hard collisions, folding to provide a "cushioning" effect. The passenger compartment remains intact.

Door locks are engineered to stay closed under the stiffest jolts. These are the same locks exactly that you will find on the $23,098 Grand Mercedes. Inside, even the steering wheel hub is padded. (Some styling experts say the Mercedes-Benz steering wheel is ugly. Safety engineers say it could save your life.)

Nassau Executive Will Address C of C Growth

Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will be visited Nov. 12 by Eugene Nickerson, county executive of Nassau County.

Nickerson will speak informally at luncheon to a small group of community leaders on Suburban Planning, Its Benefits and Pitfalls. He is particularly capable of making an educated forecast of the position of the Kingston area when the population tide begins to engulf it within the next few years since Nassau County occupied relatively the same position several decades ago.

Accommodations for a few additional interested guests at the Dutch treat luncheon were open as of today. The Chamber office, however, notes that reservations must be made no later than Wednesday.

citizenship and greater productivity for decades to come." Among other things, the legislation provides for federally financed scholarships — called "educational opportunity grants" — ranging from $200 to $1,000 a year.

Now Open to All

"To thousands of young men and women," said Johnson, "this act means the path of knowledge is open to all with the determination to walk it."

At the same time, Johnson said he will go back to Congress in January for money to finance a National Teacher Corps authorized in the bill but later denied funds. This corps would bring special help to children in impoverished areas.

"I intend immediately to ask again for the money to take the Teacher Corps off the drawing boards into the classroom," he said.

Johnson's speech combined praise of the new bill with some sentimental recollections of his college days here and philosophizing about government's role in education.

On the last point, he said: "Too many people, for too many years, argued that education and health and human welfare were not the government's concern."

U. S. Partner, Not Boss

"Even as they spoke, our schools fell behind, our sick went unattended, and our poor fell deeper into despair."

"Now at least we are acting. The roots of change and reform are spreading throughout the nation."

Johnson said he wanted to emphasize "that the federal government intends to be a partner, not a boss," in education, and has "neither the wish nor the power to dictate."

Under the corps program, teams of teachers and recent graduates would try to improve educational opportunities for children in poverty areas. The corps would start with about 6,000 members. They would be paid with federal funds and serve in an area only at the request of local school officials.

The college scholarships are expected to average $500, running from $200 to $800 with a $1,000 ceiling allowed for a student in the upper half of his class in the preceding year.

The program also provides low-interest loans for students, funds to improve college libraries, grants to aid small and newly developing colleges, increased grants for building college classrooms and grants for audio-visual equipment and other teaching aids.

This was the second education measure Johnson brought to Texas for signing. Last April 11, he signed a $1.3-billion elementary and secondary school bill at the one-room school near his ranch where his formal education began.

For the second straight Sunday, Johnson and his wife did not go to services in one of the neighboring churches. Instead they invited Ray Akin, lay minister of the First Christian Church of Kingston City to conduct a private worship service at the ranch.

Aides said Johnson is taking life pretty easy while making steady progress in his recovery from his Oct. 8 call bladder-kidney stone surgery.

Bids to Be Opened For Armory Work

Bids for construction work for the exterior masonry rehabilitation and painting wood and metal work at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue will be opened at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday at the State Department of Public Works Administration and Engineering Buildings in Albany, it was announced today.

J. Burch McMorran, superintendent of Public Works, said that it was among bid proposals on 19 projects for construction, repairs and alterations to various State-owned facilities.

200 Attend

The keynote speaker also lauded the local insurance executive for his unstinting work in reviving the Jewish Community Center in 1947. "It took real hard work and leadership during these troubled times," Klein added.

"The JCC has more going for it today than ever before with a program to be proud of in more ways than one. It is all due to men like Herman Eaton who made this possible," the keynote reminded his audience.

Klein concluded by saying the community has much to be thankful for in the person of our guest of honor tonight. I am sure even more will be heard of him in the future as he will "continue to be interested in you, you and you."

Berger Presents Gifts

Sam Berger, president of the Jewish Community Center, who presented Eaton with a plaque as remembrance of the event and also a silver candelabra, referred to the honored guest as a "lighter of candles—a leader who shows the way. In presenting the latter gift, Berger said "may it light your way in the future as you have ours in the past."

Eaton, who briefly acknowledged the plaudits of the Granit Hotel audience, said in honoring "me tonight you also honor Ida, my wife. He noted his pride and joy and labor of love in the service for which he was being extolled.

Other speakers included Alfred Rose, chairman of the testimonial dinner, who expressed his hopes that the event honoring Eaton would become an annual function.

Champion of Cooperation

Robert Kurland, executive director of the JCC, who called Eaton a "Johnny on the spot" who shows the devotion to community affairs as he does to his business. He called Eaton a pillar in many civic functions, not only to the Jewish life of the city and county.

Kurland said the guest of honor has championed the spirit of cooperation and one who has done far more than his share in fund-raising and committee activities.

Lipton Is Emcee

Manuel Lipton, president of Agudas Achim Synagogue, was master of ceremonies who was described during the program by one of the speakers as the "Jewish Will Rogers." Lipton did a creditable job in his emcee role as well as reading a host of telegrams from well-wishers to the guest of honor.

Eaton's service to the community began in 1940; and in 1941 he was one of the organizers of the Zephaniah Lodge No. 131, B'nai B'rith. He served as president of that organization in 1942-1943 and during his tenure, the Woman's Chapter and two youth groups, A.Z.A. and B.B.G. were organized.

Following service with the U.S. Army from 1943 through 1946, Eaton returned to Kingston to become president of the Kingston Hebrew School and a member of the Kingston Jewish Community Council.

He served as the first president of the newly organized Kingston Jewish Community Center from 1947 through 1948 and again as president from 1960 to 1961. For two years he served as regional director of the Hudson Valley Council of B'nai B'rith Youth Organization and in 1953-54 served as president of the Kingston Jewish Community Council and chairman of the United Jewish Welfare Fund, a job which he again accepted for the 1965 campaign. Eaton also has served the community as vice president of Congregation Agudas Achim, as board member of the Jewish Home for the Aged in Troy; as chairman of the Ulster County Heart Fund

Summer Home Entered

The summer home of Mrs. Hess of 360 East 72 Street, New York City on Spillway Road, was found entered Saturday afternoon when the family arrived at the house. Entrance had been gained by opening a screen door and breaking glass in the kitchen door. An antique chandelier was removed from the ceiling and taken. It was valued at from $250 to $500. The chandelier was taken some time between Nov. 2 and last Saturday when the family returned to the house. Deputy Sheriff John Tuley investigated and the investigation was being continued today by County Investigator Thomas Mayone.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Aluminums were down sharply and the over-all stock market declined early today following news that the government would release 200,000 tons of aluminum from the stockpile. Trading was fairly active but below the Friday pace.

The big aluminum producers took losses that ranged to more than 2 points.

The brush between the administration and the aluminum industry seemed to be triggering some precautionary selling in various stocks where big paper profits have been built up.

Prominent among losers were some of the airlines, electronics and aerospace stocks.

Motors, steels, rails and drugs also headed lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 at 354.4 with industrials off 1.6, rails off 1.0 and utilities off .4.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.29 at 955.17.

19-Year-Old Jailed On 2 Vehicle Counts

A 19-year-old Yonkers youth was arrested by New Paltz Police Officer Calvin Harvey on charges of having no insurance or registration for motor bike he was operating. On the charge of no insurance a fine of $100 or 30 days in jail was imposed by Justice Warren McDowell of Town of Gardiner. On the charge of no registration, a $25 fine or ten days in jail was imposed. He was remanded to jail in lieu of the fines.

When stopped by Bryon J. Byrne, 19, of 250 Overlook Terrace, Yonkers, told Officer Harvey, that he was a student at the college and when he was unable to produce proof of insurance or a registration slip he said the bike was registered in the name of his uncle, Calvin Harvey.

Having no nephew named Bryan J. Byrne in Yonkers, Officer Harvey pressed the charge.

The bike had formerly been owned by Officer Harvey, who had sold it and Byrne later purchased it. He failed to register it and used the name of Officer Harvey, the former owner, when questioned as to registration.

Not Through Counting

Brig. Gen. Ellis Williamson, the Brigade commander, reported the paratroopers counted 110 Viet Cong dead and "they're not through counting."

U.S. casualties in the fight 15 miles north of Bien Hoa were described as moderate. For security reasons, American casualties are not given in numbers.

The paratroopers came upon the Viet Cong force while on a search and sweep operation that started several days ago. They found what U.S. officers described as a well-fortified jungle position.

Another sharp ground action was reported 135 miles east of Saigon, where 500 Viet Cong overran a hamlet. The defenders suffered heavy losses. The government force later regained the hamlet with help from U.S. air strikes.

were being held for $25,000 ransom and if the money was not paid they would be harmed.

Tossed to Jeep Occupants

Every, it was reported, obtained the money and drove to Sawkill Road. The first car that happened along at the specified spot directed by the would-be extortionists was a white jeep, canvas top with New Jersey registration plates. A bank bag containing the $25,000 was tossed to the occupants of the jeep.

The jeep, carrying two men, continued on without stopping. The money bag and contents was recovered.

No Answer at Home

Sergeant Rhodes said before getting the money, Every apparently telephoned his home after receiving the threat and getting no answer he suspected the threat was legitimate and his wife and children were being held captives for the ransom.

All Found Safe

The first troopers to arrive at the Every home found Mrs. Every and the children safe and unharmed. Every returned to the residence some time later, troopers said. Trooper Thomas Crowley was one of the first to arrive at Every's home.

Meanwhile, other troopers had dispatched to Sawkill Road. They included BCI Investigators Roger Gardner, Richard Ryan and James Kaljian and Trooper John Kohland. Other troopers were assigned to set up roadblocks at the Rip Van Winkle, Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridges as the search spread out for the white jeep and its occupants.

'Hoax' Is Possible

Troopers said there was a possibility the jeep was not involved in the incident, and a state police official also said "it might be a hoax" referring to the telephone call to Every.

Got Threat at Bank

H. A. DeWitt, vice-president of the State of New York National Bank, said this afternoon that Every received the threatening telephone call at the Albany Avenue branch of the bank. The $25,000 was obtained at the bank, according to the bank executive.

Bids Broadcasters Bring Foreigners Here

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Information Agency chief Leonard H. Marks asked American broadcasters today to bring foreign radio-television men to this country for temporary jobs at U.S. stations.

He said this would promote foreign understanding of America.

"I offer a challenge to you here this morning," Marks said in a speech prepared for a broadcasters' promotion association seminar.

"I ask you to invite from every willing foreign country one radio or television journalist to come here at your expense for a period of 60 days to be employed at your station as a member of your staff," he said.

Marks said USIA, whose task is to promote understanding and support of the United States overseas, stands ready to help the American broadcasting industry in such a project.

Some 3,400 private exchange efforts bringing foreign peoples to America are already in existence, Marks said, declaring that "personal contact" is the best method of getting across viewpoints to foreigners.

Political Mixup Is Evident In Conflicting Statements

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometimes you can't even tell the players with a scorecard. Things get mixed up.

John V. Lindsay, the Republican who just got elected mayor of New York City on a "fusion" ticket and played down his Republicanism, says it wasn't a Republican victory.

Statements Confict

He was talking Sunday on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation." But New York's Republican governor, Nelson A. Rockefeller, said it was a GOP victory. He was talking on another Sunday radio-television program, ABC's "Issues and Answers."

After last week's election returns, Rockefeller said New York City is now a "Republican town." But Lindsay said under him New York would be "non-partisan."

Lindsay, whose relations with Rockefeller seem less than hearty, said that while he would endorse the governor for another term he would not campaign for him.

Last week Ray C. Bliss, GOP national chairman, while denouncing "leftist - oriented" groups in the Democratic party, urged all Republicans to "reject membership in any radical organization which attempts to use the Republican party for its own ends."

Berated Welch
He specifically berated Robert Welch, founder and president of the John Birch Society, calling him an "irresponsible radical."

Meanwhile, Welch, also over the weekend, once again said the government was under Communist influence.

Welch, who calls democracy "mob rule," considers the income tax destructive, accused former President Dwight D. Eisenhower of treason and put the Communist tag on the late John Foster Dulles, considers the United States "one vast insane asylum."

Not long ago, a Republican senator, Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, who had attacked the Birch Society before, said there is no reason for it in the Republican party.

Concerned By Direction
"As a partisan Republican," he said, "I am concerned by the fact that the John Birch Society has picked my party as the vehicle to promulgate its monolithic philosophy. In so doing, this group seems more dedicated to the defeat of Republicans than Democrats."

He also added this: that Birchites of the left have a stronger hold on the Democrats than any "extremists ever had on our party."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican Senate leader, while agreeing with Morton that the Republican party has no place for Birchites, said they have never been a part of the GOP and never will be.

But Sen. George Murphy, California Republican, saw the difference from Birchites a little differently from Morton. He said 60 per cent of them are Democrats.

Scores Extremists
Over the weekend Barry Goldwater declared America faces a new breed of extremists who, he said, are associated with the Democratic party.

The 1964 presidential candidate was referring to draft-card burners, attempts to block movement of troops to Viet Nam and "leftist groups planning to send supplies to the Viet Cong." He called them radicals who "for the most part consistently vote the Democratic ticket."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who last week refrained from calling Lindsay's victory a Republican victory, said over the weekend Republicans are stronger because they have healed their ideological split of 1964 and repudiated the radical right extremists.

But not long ago Bliss had said Goldwater's new Free Society Association will hurt the GOP's long-range interests. Goldwater insisted his outfit should help the party.

Mrs. Semilof also informed the group that there were 21 new members in Sisterhood. Installation of these new members will take place Dec. 8, and on Dec. 10 there will be special services honoring these women. The Mmes. Henry Jacobs and Stephen Scher, were thanked for their work on the membership committee.

A report was given by Mrs. Marvin Millens on the Book of Life (A Dedication Plaque). This is a special project that the Sisterhood has undertaken to raise money for the kitchen of the new Synagogue.

Final plans are being made by Mrs. Murray Green and her committee for the donor dinner to be held April 2 at the Homewick Lodge. The rummage sale that was held Nov. 2 and 3 was a success. Thanks went to Mrs. Irving Wilpan and her committee of the Mmes. Pearl Adin, Bernard Cohn, Daniel Gikner, Aaron Goodman, Joseph Horowitz, Carl Lipton, Julius Lipton Mel Kelman, Alvin Parnell, Harold Pincus, Irving Scher, George Small Morris Tucker and the Mmes. Mrs. Martin Netburn was congratulated for the work she has been doing with the Sisterhood newspaper. She requested that all articles for the paper be submitted two weeks prior to the meeting.

Mrs. Ira M. Shaw was welcomed as chairman for all publicity for the Sisterhood.

It was announced that a fashion show for all the ladies of the community will take place Nov. 18 at the vestry, Spring and Wurts Street. Refreshments will be served. No tickets will be necessary, however a nominal donation will be collected at the door. Latest winter fashions from one of Kingston's leading fashion centers will be shown.

Friday, Nov. 26, Sisterhood will honor the young people of the community. The United Synagogue Youth will conduct the services. Following the Oneg Shabbat, Rabbi Harry Schechtman and the college students will discuss How College Life Has Affected Youths' Feelings Towards Judaism.

The Mmes. George Small, and Jerome Syman announced that gifts and candy for Chanukah are available through the gift shop. Also special displays, gift wrappings and decorations under the direction of the Mmes. Edward Furman, Harry Schechtman, George Small and David Weinstein will be available.

Bloomington Unit

The regular monthly meeting of the Bloomington Home Extension Unit will be held Tuesday at the Bloomington Fire-hall. Mrs. Dorothy Mastro and Mrs. Elizabeth Schneider will continue with lessons on bowls and chair caning.

The business meeting will be at 1 p. m. Mrs. Mastro and Mrs. Elsie Ingram will report on the Versatile Egg project.

Port Ewen Unit

The October meeting of the Home Demonstration Department, Port Ewen Unit, recently met at the Methodist Church classroom. A short business meeting was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Edward Barnoski. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Bruce Davis, who gave a talk on "choos' g cheese wisely." Mrs. Davis demonstrated her talk by preparing a cheese buffet, showing how various cheeses are used with their accompaniments, to appreciate their individual flavors. After her talk, the hostess served the members her preparations. The next regular meeting will be Nov. 16.

Oct. 20, the first annual Christmas Open House was held by the Port Ewen Home Demonstration Unit at the town hall. This was presented as an exhibit, showing many ideas for Christmas decorating and entertaining. It was visited by a number of guests during the afternoon and evening. Mrs. Emory LeMay was chairman.

Preparations for the Fall season are discussed in the following article by Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent:

FAIRY RINGS—About this time of year, circles of mushrooms and dark green grass may be seen surrounding areas of light-colored or dead grass. These are called fairy rings—and far from being a favor from a fairy, they indicate a fungus growth beneath the soil.

If this fungus is not controlled, the ring will spread from 5 to 24 inches a year—leaving behind it dead and dying grass.

According to turf experts at the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the best way to halt this growth is to punch holes about 6 inches apart throughout the affected area and about 18 inches outside the ring. Make the holes ¼ to ½ inch in diameter and 4 to 6 inches deep. Fill the holes with a turf fungicide solution (preferably a mercury fungicide) at manufacturer's recommended rates.

Fairy rings seldom occur in lawns that are adequately fertilized and treated with fungicides for control of other diseases.

Caution: Fungicides may be hazardous, so handle them with care. Follow the direction on the label and heed any precautions.

CONCRETE ADVICE—Once a greasy stain has set on a concrete or cement patio, it's hard to get rid of it—and after a lighthearted summer of cook-outs and barbecues, the stain removal chore may come as a bit of a shock.

This advice from U. S. Department of Agriculture Extension Specialists should help:

An absorbent—Fuller's earth and lime are good ones—acts as a blotter and may remove stains without further treatment. Sprinkle it on, leave it alone for awhile, then sweep it up.

If that doesn't work, hose down the patio with clean water. This wetting down saturates the concrete and serves as a kind of seal to prevent dirty water from soaking in. Then scrub with a stiff broom dipped in thick detergent suds. Hose again and rinse.

If the grease spots stubbornly persist, try this: Sprinkle dish-water detergent on the wet concrete. Let it stand a few minutes. Then rinse with a kettle of boiling water.

Old Dutch Guild Hears History of Church Music; Illustrative Works Are Presented

At the recent meeting of the Women's Guild of the Old Dutch Church, a program entitled, "The Singing Church" was presented under the leadership of Mrs. Dewese DeWitt and Mrs. Henry Millonig.

Mrs. DeWitt opened the program by quoting, "Music is an art of human expression which directly voices the human soul . . . making the spoken word more vital, more sincere, more true."

Mrs. DeWitt related that among the earliest instruments were reeds, which were bound together and played as a pipe. To illustrate this earliest attempt of man's expression through music, Mrs. Amos Newcombe played a simple melody on the clarinet such as might have been heard from the primitive reeds. Mrs. DeWitt continued by saying that the earliest church music was based upon the psalms and was sung antiphonally with the priest leading and the worshippers responding.

Gradually church ritual grew more complex and the clergy more powerful. The people were deprived of their participation through music and the priests and choirs assumed the musical expression of worship. The use of instruments in the service was condemned because of their pagan connotation and the chants of the monks was the sole musical expression.

During the Middle Ages, the Gregorian chant came to its full growth and a recording of such a chant was played to illustrate this facet of church music.

Mrs. Millonig then spoke of the period of the Reformation in the church when the people once again began to want to express themselves in music. Martin Luther is credited with promoting singing for the congregations, and since there were no hymns, as they are known now, he composed over 50. He is also credited with introducing part singing into the vocabulary of church music. Following the lead of Luther, the resulting Dutch Reformed congregations continued congregational singing as an integral part of the worship service and, with the recent decrees of the Ecumenical Council, the Roman Catholic denomination, too, is encouraging participation in song by all the worshippers.

A quartette, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Simmons, Mrs. William Roosa and Gordon Bush sang two selections, a capella, to illustrate different forms of church music. The program concluded with the entire group singing several hymns. Gordon Bush was the accompanist.

At the business meeting which followed, Mrs. John R. Warren presided, and at its conclusion, a social hour was held. The next meeting of the Women's Guild will be Wednesday, Dec. 1.

Two Faiths Join Hands in KayCee Service Sunday

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Roman Catholics and Protestants joined hands and worshipped together at a religious service in Municipal Auditorium Sunday.

The service, called the Festival of Faith, was sponsored by both the Kansas City Council of Churches and the Kansas City-St. Joseph Catholic Diocese.

About 4,000 persons, including 120 clergymen, took part. Catholics and Protestants sang hymns and recited prayers in unison. Ushers accepted donations for ecumenical affairs of the coming year.

The Rt. Rev. Edward R. Welles, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of West Missouri, and Msgr. Richard Schumacher, vicar general of the Kansas City-St. Joseph Catholic Diocese, led the reading of Scriptures and devotionals.

"We Christians must gratefully cherish and cultivate the spirit — given unity that we already possess," Bishop Welles said.

"Unity in Christ is unity in one body and one spirit and one baptism. Our goal must include some form of institutional unity."

THIS IS A WEDDING GOWN!—Greek-born Georgia Spanos, young designer for Pandora, has created a show-stopping short French lace bridal gown in lime-yellow daquiri tone with French lace stockings and mantilla to match for a preview program recently. The fashion show was given in New York under the patronage of Michael Legendre, Consul General of France and was attended by French government dignitaries as well as by French and American newspaper, magazine, radio and TV editors. To say the least, this number was very different. According to the designer, you just whisk away the mantilla and you have a lovely cocktail dress.

Chief Murphy Lists Driving Tips for Winter

With winter weather blowing in, preparedness-minded Kingston drivers have been wondering about the merits of special winter tires as compared with regular rubber, and the quality of stop-and-go traction provided by tire chains as compared with that of a more recently developed device — tungsten carbide studs imbedded in auto tires.

Understandably, some drivers have turned to Police Chief Robert F. Murphy for an informed opinion.

No Expert on Devices

Disclaiming any personal expertise in the field of winter traction devices, the chief today gave out the following information which is based on National Safety Council research findings:

Cars equipped with snow tires with metal studs are safer on ice than cars with regular snow tires, but some reports indicate that their stopping efficiency on wet or dry pavements may be somewhat less than that of cars using regular tires without studs.

Unstudded snow tires provide better traction in snow, and somewhat better traction on ice, than regular tires.

Still unmatched in providing traction for both starting and stopping in severe winter conditions is the time-honored remedy for winter worry employed by generations of drivers — reinforced tire chains, readily applied when needed and easily removed when the need has passed.

Published research results showed the following average performance, based on tests conducted on ice at temperatures

Homecoming Queen Finalist at Tampa

Miss Sondra Klementis, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Klementis of Woodstock, is one of five Homecoming Queens finalists at the University of Tampa, Florida.

Miss Klementis and four other University of Tampa coeds were selected from a field of 11 candidates on Oct. 29 in judging by community representatives and University faculty. Miss Klementis is being sponsored in the contest by the school's Circle K service organization.

The queen and first, second and third maids and lady-in-waiting will be announced on Nov. 19 during Homecoming weekend.

Miss Klementis, who is a graduate of Kingston High School, is a senior in elementary education at the University, which is located in Hillsborough County on Florida's Gulf Coast.

Temperatures ranging from 18 degrees below to 32 degrees above zero:

Stopping distance for a car traveling at 20 mph—with reinforced chains, 70 feet; with studded snow tires, 110 feet; with snow tires, 167 feet; with regular tires, 180 feet.

With respect to pulling ability on ice, studded tires held the same relative position in efficiency—that is, between regular snow tires and tire chains, according to Prof. A. H. Easton, University of Wisconsin, chairman of the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards.

Easton summarized traction tests results by reporting that snow tires give 36 per cent improvement over regular tires on ice, studded snow tires provide 136 per cent improvement, and reinforced tire chains offer 405 per cent improvement.

The chief warned that drivers seeking traction devices that provide complete summertime traction and permit full summertime driving speed in winter are doomed to disappointment.

Even when using recommended traction aids, he warned that increased caution, reduced speed, and much greater following distances in traffic are the essential ingredients of safe winter driving.

Teen Film Review Board Is Started At City Library

A Teen Film Review Board is being started by the Kingston Library to provide more and better film programs for teenagers in this area.

Don Sager, the library director, explained that the library can borrow over seven thousand free films, and although adults and organizations do take advantage of this service, the library, up until this time, has had little opportunity to provide a film program for teenagers.

During the past several years, he noted, the film has increasingly been acknowledged as an important art form, and the quality of many films has been particularly outstanding. Film festivals, film circles and film clubs have been increasing in number throughout the United States.

At the same time, the number of films available to libraries has increased, so that television documentaries, feature length films and a multitude of special subject features may now be obtained without cost. The teenager rarely has an opportunity to work with these films, Sager said, despite their abundance. The projection equipment, viewing areas, catalogs and guidance are rarely available to him.

The Kingston Library is initiating a Teen Film Review Board to give the opportunity to teenagers to preview films and arrange their own programs. The staff of the Kingston Library and the Audio-Visual Consultant from Mid-Hudson Libraries will provide advice and assistance in acquiring films for preview showings every week. The equipment and facilities of the film viewing area in the library will be available to them, and the Teen Board will have the opportunity to develop their own film programs for other teenagers.

Teenagers interested in joining the Teen Film Board can apply at the library, which is open from 9 to 9 Monday through Friday, and 1-5 p. m. Saturday. As soon as a sufficient number have enrolled, an organizational meeting will be called.

Y-Wives Schedule Yule Dinner for Leherb's, Dec. 2

Members of the Y-Wives, formerly Junior Married Women's Club, are guests of Richard Kobran at the Richard I Beauty School Thursday night. A film on haircutting was shown after which Mr. Kobran discussed all phases of hair-styling and care. A question and answer period followed the discussion and after the program members returned to the YWCA for the business meeting and refreshments.

Following routine reports and business, Mrs. Frederick F. Burnett, president, reminded members that the YWCA World Fellowship Program would be held Sunday, Nov. 14 at 3 p. m. Y-Wives will donate cookies for the event which are to be left at the YWCA on Saturday, Nov. 13 or on Sunday before noon.

There has been a request for volunteers from the club to assist in the breathing tests being conducted currently in this area. Anyone not at the meeting who would like to volunteer for this important project may contact the Ulster County TB and Health Association for further information.

Mrs. Francis B. Gardner announced that plans are completed for the annual autumn dinner-dance at Oehler's on Nov. 13 at 7:30 p. m. Reservations are closed. Mrs. Hessel L. Davison advised that the Christmas dinner Dec. 2 at 7 p. m. will be at Leherb's Restaurant. Reservations will be accepted by Mrs. Davison until Nov. 29.

Y-Wives will again provide Christmas gifts for foster children in Welfare care. This has become a tradition with the club and this year members are requested to provide new games in any age category other than infants. Mrs. Herbert H. Reuner is in charge and announced that the gifts may be brought unwrapped to either the Nov. 18 meeting or to the Christmas dinner on Dec. 2.

Dr. Ravdin Gets Cancer Award

NEW YORK — Dr. I. S. Ravdin, professor of Surgery and Executive vice-chairman Medical Campaign Executive Committee of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School and Past President of the American Cancer Society, received the Society's National Award at its annual dinner at the Hotel Commodore.

This is the highest honor given by the American Cancer Society. More than 700 attended the dinner.

Lt. Gen. Garrison Holt Davidson (retired), now Assistant vice-president for Administration at the University of California, Berkeley, received a special citation for his leadership as the Society's National Crusade Chairman.

In presenting the National Award to Dr. Ravdin, Dr. Murray M. Copeland, president of the Society, said that the surgeon had been rightfully described as "one of the great men of medicine."

He has been identified with the medical affairs of the University of Pennsylvania ever since he received his medical degree from the institution in 1918. In 1962, the I. S. Ravdin Institute was dedicated in his honor as a research and patient care unit of the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. He is a Past President of the American College of Surgeons and the American Surgical Association. A citation accompanying the gold medal National Award reads: "A distinguished surgeon, public servant and an imaginative leader in medical education, research and administration — his profound concern for the cancer patient has brought remarkable progress in cancer control and in saving lives."

Francis J. Wilcox, Chairman of the Society's Board, presented the special citation to Gen. Davidson, pointing out that under his leadership in 1965 the Society received a record high of $45,266,560 from all sources — $1,491,220 more than in 1964. The Crusade alone raised $36,855,157 — $2,761,653 more than last year.

General "Gar" Davidson, as he is known, has had a long and distinguished military career. At 28, he became the youngest man ever assigned as head coach of the West Point football team. He served in Africa, Italy and France in World War II, and in the Korean War. He was Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy and Commanding General of the Seventh Army in Germany.

His last assignment before retiring was Commanding Fort Jay.

FRIED CHICKEN, YANKEE STYLE, prepared in a modern electric frypan, and garnished with artichoke hearts and mushroom slices won high praise at the 1965 National Chicken Cooking Contest.

When Chicken Fans Flock Together

Once a year the best cooks from all over the country—men, women and teenagers—descend upon the Delmarva Peninsula armed with their favorite chicken recipes. And for the three days of the National Chicken Cooking Contest the contestants fry, broil, saute, bake, and barbecue chickens to get the winning nod from the national judges. For the thousands of spectators, there's lots of excitement and good eating, especially from the "World's Largest Fry Pan" which cooks in 400 pounds of corn oil the 12,000 quarters of chicken needed to satisfy the hungry. After the last wishbone has been broken, the festival authorities gather together the prize-worthy recipes.

The National Chicken Cooking Contest is open to good cooks in every state in the union and during the 1965 contest, there were contestants from every state except Alaska, competing in the four divisions: senior, junior, outdoor barbecue and portable appliance.

Popular entries included Chick 'N' Dill, a recipe for fried chicken with a creamy mushroom sauce; Fruit 'N' Chicken Barbecue, an outdoor grill specialty featuring an herb marinade and fruit casserole accompaniment and Yankee Chicken, cooked in white wine with mushrooms and artichokes.

CHICK 'N' DILL

4 chicken breasts
1 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup corn oil
Fresh dill weed
Mushroom Cream Sauce
Season chicken with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Dip in flour and coat. Put in skillet in hot corn oil and fry slowly to a golden brown. Cover and cook 45 minutes or until tender. Serve with hot Mushroom Cream Sauce and garnish with dill weed. Makes 4 servings.

Mushroom Cream Sauce. Melt 3 tablespoons margarine and blend with 1/4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Gradually stir in 1 cup chicken broth. Bring to a boiling point and cook 3 minutes. Stirring constantly, stir in a mixture of 1/2 cup milk and 1/2 cup cream and 1/2 cup thinly sliced mushrooms. Cook 5 minutes and serve hot with chicken.

CHICKEN YANKEE STYLE
1 broiler-fryer, quartered
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup margarine
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup white wine
2 cooked or canned artichoke hearts, quartered
1/4 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced or quartered

Season chicken with salt and pepper. Brown slowly in hot margarine on both sides (about 20 minutes). Add wine, artichoke hearts and mushrooms. Cover, reduce heat and simmer in frypan for about 5 to 10 minutes or until mushrooms are tender. Makes 4 servings.

DILL FLAVOR FOR CHICKEN is popular. This fried chicken, combined with a cream gravy with mushroom slices, makes a hearty Sunday noonday meal.

Phone Strike Is Canceled After 11th Hour Move

NEW YORK (AP)—A possible statewide strike by 25,000 New York Telephone Co. equipment workers has been canceled following agreement of the company and the Communications Workers of America for arbitration of a dispute over suspensions.

Cancellation of the strike, which had been threatened for 8 a.m. today, was announced by James McCabe, president of Local 1101 of the AFL-CIO CWU at a news conference late Sunday.

A Telephone Company spokesman said later the arbitration proposal was set forth by the company last Friday. He said the union rejected the offer and accepted it Sunday.

McCabe said 12,500 members of his local in Manhattan and The Bronx and a like number of Telephone Company em-

High Mass Is Held For Hearst Treasurer

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Our Lady of Lourdes Church here was the scene of a High Mass of Requiem today for George S. Sweet, treasurer of Hearst Publications, who died Friday in New York City.

Sweet, 58, also was assistant comptroller of the Hearst Corp. He was a native of Utica and lived in Mount Vernon. He was a graduate of Rider College, Trenton, N.J.

Survivors include Mrs. George F. Jenny of Utica, a sister.

Employees elsewhere across the state had been ready to stop work this morning.

Sixty-five employees in Nassau County were suspended for failure to answer a special call for work last Tuesday, Election Day.

Threat of a statewide strike was sparked when Charles King, president of Local 1104 in West Hempstead, was suspended by the company and charged with failure to order his men back to work.

AF Probes Crash At Drum, Former SAC Man Killed

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—

Air Force investigators studied the remnants of an F100-C jet fighter today to determine what caused the crash at Camp Drum that took the life of a 30-year-old pilot for the New York State Air National Guard.

Capt. J. Robert McChesney of Erie, Pa., was killed Saturday while preparing to make a rocket-firing run during a training mission.

The single-seat jet went down near the firing range, about two miles northeast of Antwerp.

McChesney was attached to the 107th Tactical Fighter Group, Niagara Falls.

McChesney's wing pilot, Maj. Harold Schultz of Tonawanda, said the two were preparing to make their first firing pass when McChesney's plane suddenly nosed over and crashed.

Schultz said McChesney, a former Strategic Air Command pilot, gave no hint of trouble.

The Air Force ordered a six-man investigating team into the reservation to determine the cause of the crash.

McChesney, an employee of a Cleveland investment firm, held a commercial pilot's license and had taken part in the weekend gunnery sessions for the past three years.

Household Happy As Dad Returns

HINSDALE, Ill. (AP)—It was a happy-go-lucky household of kids that welcomed home Grant Randolph from the hospital where he had recovered from a serious heart attack.

He returned Sunday to 15 children and his wife, Joan, 33, who is expecting another child in December.

Randolph, 39, an ex-Marine and a driver for Brink's, Inc., said his huge clan had been "just like a million bucks." Seven of the children in the nine-room Hinsdale home are orphans of Randolph's sister, Jean Adrian, and her husband.

The seven Adrian children call Randolph "Unc." "But sometimes," said Jill Adrian, 17, "his 4-year-old (Chris) makes a mistake and calls him 'Unc.' too."

Calling father "Unc." isn't the only mistake possible in this king-size family.

"We have two Stevens," said Jill, "and they're both girls; two Chrises, and they're both boys; and a Tim and a Kim, and they're both 8."

However, a reasonable amount of quietude is in order for the 15 lively youngsters during Dad's — or Unc's — recuperation. Two months of rest at home have been prescribed for him.

As Steve said: "We can still yell if we want to. But we have to take turns."

Mark, 16, said that the fami-

An attempted burglary at Our Lady of the Valley RC Church, Walker Valley, today was under investigation by Ellenville BCI investigators. Sergeant Donald Paulson said entrance was gained by breaking a window. The intruder apparently left through a side door. Nothing was missing. The break occurred sometime Saturday, troopers said.

"People are really tons."

THE SMART PEOPLE ARE ALL SET FOR A MERRY CHRISTMAS

They're the people who will receive their Christmas Club check next week from The State of New York National Bank.

They're the people who will do their Christmas shopping NOW before shops are crowded and while merchants' stocks are clean and fresh and with full selection.

They're the people who will have no after-Christmas bills. Theirs will be a truly Merry Christmas!

Can everyone be that smart? They surely can! Just make sure YOU start YOUR 1966 Christmas Club before this month ends!

AUTOMOTIVE New Cars

What Does "Quality Built In, Not Added On" Really Mean?

★ Modern six-cylinder power-plants that deliver performance and smoothness most of today's customers expect to find only in an extra-cost V-8.

128 standard horsepower puts American horses ahead of Corvair, Falcon, Valiant, even Mustang!

★ A Double-Safety brake system that is built in at the factory as standard equipment... not an extra-cost add-on.

Of all U.S.-built passenger cars only American Motors and Cadillac offer as standard equipment.

★ Seats with Deep-Coil comfort built right in.

We have coil spring seats on all our models. Cadillac is the only other U.S. manufacturer that has them.

★ Longest-lasting Exhaust System of any car built... including Cadillac!

★ Extruded-Aluminum Grilles that keep their showroom look.

★ Molded Ceilings that competition hasn't gotten around to copying yet.

★ Double Seals on the doors of sedans and wagons that help keep interiors tight, clean, dry.

★ Ball-Bearing Ashtrays that nobody else bothers to provide.

★ "But what about our reclining seats and safety headrests — aren't they an add-on item?"

Any way you add it up, we've got a powerful "Quality built in, not added on" story to tell about our '66 cars:

WE HAVE A FEW NEW 1965 RAMBLERS, TO BE SOLD AT DEALER'S COST.

16-Year-Old Is Wounded in Foot While Hunting

A 16-year-old Dutchess County youth was accidentally wounded in the right foot early Saturday afternoon, when a 22 caliber rifle carried by a companion accidentally discharged as he tripped over a tree stump in a wooded area on the Eymard Preparatory Seminary at Hyde Park. Rhinebeck State Police said Donald Dorn, 16, of Cedar Street, Staatsburg, was taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, by ambulance. He was treated for the bullet wound and admitted after the bullet was removed. According to troopers at Rhinebeck-Hyde Park substation, Dorn was hunting with three other boys, Edward Applegarth, 15, Kevin Cullen, 16, and Chester Johnson, 15, all of Hyde Park. Johnson, troopers said, was following to the right of Dorn, holding his rifle in his right hand, with a finger on the trigger guard. As the boy tripped on a tree stump the gun accidentally discharged and hit Dorn's right foot.

Klan Conducts 4-State Rally

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Burning crosses and memorial services highlighted Ku Klux Klan rallies held over the weekend in four states.

Klansmen, spectators — and some hecklers — turned out in Rising Sun, Md.; Chesapeake, Va.; Lebanon, Ohio; and Austin, Tex.

The rally at Rising Sun, the first in Maryland in more than 40 years, drew a crowd Saturday night that newsmen estimated at about 2,000. However, Vernon Naimaster, acting head of the state klavern, said there were at least 3,000 cars counted before the counter "got tired and quit."

The Maryland rally featured memorial services for Daniel Burros, a New York Klan leader who killed himself when his Jewish background was disclosed, and Matt Murphy Jr., a Klan attorney from Birmingham, Ala., who was killed in an auto accident.

Princess Dances With Film Folk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After dancing until 2 a.m. today at a glittering Hollywood party, Princess Margaret was to arise early to attend to royal chores and see where movies are made.

Relaxed and gay, the fun-loving princess twirled around the floor Sunday night with such partners as Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly and Danny Kaye.

She'll meet more of Hollywood's royalty tonight at the big World Adoption International Fund ball at the Hollywood Palladium, after promoting British goods at a department store and touring Universal Studios.

Judy Garland, Kaye and Kelly sang and danced a little soft-shoe. Frank Sinatra, attending with Mia Farrow, declined to sing, explaining he thought everyone should just relax and have a good time.

Report No One Hurt In Route 44-55 Crash

Two vehicles were damaged but no injuries were reported as the result of a collision at 11:55 a. m. Saturday on Route 44-55 at Lower Granite Road, Town of Wawarsing.

State Police Sergeant Donald Paulson of the Ellenville substation reported the cars were driven by Donald Ross, 31, RD 1, Endicott, and Wilfred Kopp, 59, Kerhonkson. Ross was driving his 1965 car east on Route 44-55 and Kopp was traveling south on Lower Granite Road when the collision occurred.

Blame Wet Roads For Two Greene Crashes, 3 Hurt

Wet pavement was blamed for two highway accidents in Greene County Sunday afternoon which resulted in injuries to three persons and charges against two drivers.

Trooper W. E. Tompkins of Leeds substation said Robert Horin, 28, of Highland Avenue, Jamaica, was driving his car east on Route 23, Town of Ashland, at about 4:05 p. m. when the vehicle skidded on wet pavement, slid to the north side of the highway and overturned on its roof after hitting a utility pole.

Trooper P. Madigan cited Horin for failure to keep to the right. Horin sustained cornea abrasions of the right eye. A passenger, Joan Blenk, 28, also of Jamaica, received contusions of the right thigh.

At 4:40 p. m. yesterday, cars driven by Robert Kantner, 30, of Madison Avenue, City, and Charles Palmateer, 58, of Abbey Street, city, were involved in a sideswipe collision on Route 9W near the Ulster-Greene County line at Cementon.

According to a report of Trooper A. J. Peterson, Kantner was driving along the highway when his car failed to negotiate a right curve. The vehicle skidded on wet pavement, crossed the highway and was in a sideswipe collision with the Palmateer car. Trooper Tompkins reported Kantner was cited for failure to keep right. Kimberly Kantner, seven months, received a bump on her head.

Catskill Boy Hurt

Michael Blauberg, 8, of 236 High Falls Road, Catskill, was injured at 3 p. m. Saturday when hit by a jeep in the Shop-Rite parking lot off Route 9W. The boy was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance and treated for abrasions of the leg. Trooper Fred Cooper said the boy reportedly stepped from between parked cars and was hit by the westbound jeep driven by John Hilbrandt, 29, of Mill Road, Red Hook. Trooper Robert Mackey investigated.

Rep. Benner Dies, Called Father of Savannah Vessel

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Rep. Herbert C. Benner, D-N.C., was a quiet man who pushed the idea that the world's first nuclear merchant ship should fly the American flag.

The 74-year-old chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, who was sometimes called the father of the nuclear ship Savannah, died in Walter Reed Army Hospital Sunday. He had a cancerous kidney removed in July.

The congressman's body is being returned from the nation's capital to this eastern North Carolina town on the banks of the Pamlico river where he grew up.

The funeral will be Tuesday in St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Oak Dale Cemetery.

Benner became chairman of the Merchant Marine Committee in 1955 and introduced legislation to install nuclear reactors in existing merchant ships.

This plan never materialized, but he later led the way in obtaining congressional approval of the Savannah. He also pioneered with the idea of a nuclear-powered Coast Guard ice-breaker.

Benner went to Washington 50 years ago as secretary to Rep. Lindsay C. Warren of North Carolina. Before that he served as an Army sergeant overseas during World War I and was a traveling salesman.

He won Warren's 1st District seat in 1940 when Warren resigned to become U.S. comptroller general. Benner was re-elected to every succeeding Congress.

Mohn Would Be Candidate for Teamster Post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Einar Mohn, West Coast head of the Teamsters Union, says he'll be a candidate for the union's top spot if President James R. Hoffa does not run for re-election.

Mohn said his candidacy depends on the determination of two Hoffa appeals to convictions of fraud and jury tampering. He told a group of Teamsters Saturday that he hoped a bitter campaign for the presidency could be avoided.

A Supreme Court decision of Hoffa's appeal of his jury tampering case in Nashville, Tenn., is expected in January. Another appeal is pending on the fraud conviction involving the Central States pension fund.

Harold Gibbons of St. Louis, another vice president of the 1.7-million member union, and Mohn, chairman of the Western Conference of Teamsters, have been mentioned as contenders for Hoffa's job.

Benner is survived by his widow; three brothers, John and George of Washington, N.C., and James Benner of Atlanta, Ga.; and a sister, Mrs. W. H. Williams of Washington, D.C.

3 Deer Killed In Area Mishaps

Indications that this season will be a good one for deer hunters, were seen in weekend reports to Ellenville State Police of three highway mishaps that killed three deer in the Towns of Wawarsing and Shawangunk.

Sgt. Donald Paulson said Arthur Knauer Jr., 21, of Maple Avenue, Pine Bush, was driving his 1965 car east on Route 52, Town of Shawangunk, at 1:45 a. m. Sunday when a deer ran in the path of the car and was killed.

Troopers said Knauer took the deer home.

At 8:40 p. m. yesterday, Harold Slater, 32, of Kerhonkson, escaped injury when his 1957 car hit and killed a deer on Cape Road, Town of Wawarsing. Sgt.

Paulson said the vehicle was traveling east on the road when the deer leaped from the side of the road into the path of the car and was killed. Slater took the deer, troopers reported.

Rolf Solhaug, 57, RD 1, Middletown, told troopers he was driving his 1964 car north on Route 209, Town of Wawarsing at 6:15 a. m. today when a deer jumped in front of the car. The deer was killed. The driver apparently was unhurt.

Monrovia, capital of the Republic of Liberia, was named for President James Monroe.
